U. S. RENOUNCES WHEAT DUMPING

MURPHY SAYS AMERICA WILL GUARD MARKET

Delegate to World Conference Announces This Country Will Consider Other Means of Disposing of Grain Surplus Even Though Nations Fail to Reach Agreement.

LONDON, Aug. 21—(AP) — Frederick E. Murphy, American wheat delegate, said today that even if no agreement is reached at the international wheat conference, which got under way today, the United States will not resort to dumping to get rid of its surplus.

Murphy declared that the United States would try to maintain the wheat price at a reasonable level in the event that the nations represented at the conference failed to get together on a program.

America would consider means of getting rid of the surplus, he explained, but there was no idea of upsetting the market by dumping.

After appointing two committees the conference adjourned until Wednesday.

At today's meeting the chief exporting countries submitted a draft of an agreement to the importers. The draft provided:

1. That importers would not do anything to increase domestic production.

2. That they would do everything possible to increase consumption.

3. That substantial improvement in the price of wheat would be followed by tariff adjustment.

4. That tariff reductions would be accompanied by modifications of the quota system which now limits imports into consuming countries.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said last week that unless the nations agreed on a program of wheat acreage reduction the United States was prepared to proceed with a plan of "subsidized exporting" to get rid of the surplus. He explained that subsidized exporting was similar to dumping except that it would involve assurances that the United States would export approximately its normal shipments rather than shipments in excess of the normal.

OMAHA BANK HOLDUP FOILED

Employes Scare Bandit Away; Police Arrest Man At Hotel.

OMAHA, Aug. 21—(AP)—A wild cry by H. A. Morrison, assistant cashier, and a shot fired into the air by Frank Kocarnik, cashier, this afternoon foiled the attempt of a man to rob the South Omaha Savings bank, according to police.

The suspect was captured after a short chase. He gave his name as S. T. Morris, Omaha, and, police say, he was identified by three witnesses as the man who attempted the robbery.

Morrison told police the man entered the bank, turned toward a wall and started to adjust a handkerchief over his face. Morrison, watching him, suddenly shouted "Hey, what's coming off there?"

Kocarnik, roused into action by Morrison's shout, seized a pistol and fired one shot into the air. At the sound of the shot, the man turned and fled into the street. Three police officers arrested Morris several minutes later as he stood on a hotel porch near the bank. No gun was found on him.

On Sept. 17, 1931, the bank was invaded by three gunmen who escaped with $13,388.

NRA Chief Orders Guard at Johnson Office Dismissed

Rumored Communist March Fails to Perturb Officials.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 — (AP) — Three policemen placed at the doors of the office of Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, today to avoid a possible demonstration by longshoremen from Baltimore, were dismissed quickly after administration officials heard of their presence.

Notified by department of justice agents that a group described as communists were enroute from the Baltimore wharves to present grievances to Johnson, police officials put guards around the building and sent sentries to Johnson's door.

They were there only a few minutes, however, before Edward F. McGrady the assistant administrator labor, heard of it and ordered them away. He then told Johnson of the situation.

The guards remained at the entrances to the commerce department building, and it was agreed that if Johnson was in his office when the group arrived, he would receive a delegation of three. Otherwise, McGrady would hear them.

Police officials still were without definite word as to when the delegation would arrive.

News To Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 21 — (AP) — Charles D. Gaither, Baltimore police commissioner, said today he knew of no communist group enroute to Washington to lay a complaint before Hugh S. Johnson.

He said his attention was called to a notice in a communist paper that such a visit would be made and he had mailed the notice to authorities in Washington.

FOREST WORKER, LOST IN IDAHO, IS FOUND ALIVE

LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 21—(AP)—Lost six days in a forest wilderness, Leopold Thomas, youthful New York civilian conservation corps worker, was in a serious condition today but hope was held out that he might recover. He was found yesterday.

The youth's trail, during the latter part of his wandering in a semi-conscious and slightly deranged condition, searchers said, had been followed by two cougars. When found by Luther Prophet, 42, on the north fork of the Clearwater river, he was lying on the ground with his shoes gone and clothing in shreds.

Brought on a stretcher ten miles to camp, he was rushed to a hospital.

Bloodhounds were used in the search. Thomas was sighted once during the week but ran from those seeking him. His mother lives at Orange, N. J.

EMERGENCY HOG PROGRAM BEGINS ON WEDNESDAY

Federal Plan Calls For Purchase of 5,000·000 Pigs and Sows.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP) — The emergency hog program calling for the purchase of five million pigs and sows by the federal government will be inaugurated Wednesday in six middlwestern markets, the agricultural adjustment administration announced today.

Purchase will be carried on in Chicago, Omaha, St. Paul, Sioux City and St. Joseph markets.

Farmers can follow the usual procedure in sending their hogs to the markets, it was explained, but were cautioned not to sell so far below the government's prices as to allow exorbitant handling fees for the usual middlemen.

List of Prices.

The Chicago stockyards was made a basing point and G. G. Thorn, field representative of the corn and hog section of the A. A. A., announced the government would pay the following prices:

Pigs weighing 25 to 30 pounds, $9.50 per hundred pounds; pigs of 31 to 35 pounds, $9.25; pigs weighing 36 to 40 pounds, $9.00 41 to 45 pounds, $8.75, 46 to 50 pounds, $8.50. 51 to 55 pounds, $8.25; 56 to 60 pounds, $8.00; 61 to 65 pounds, $7.75; 66 to 70 pounds, $7.50; 71 to 75 pounds, $7.25.

For pigs weighing 76 to 80 pounds, the announced price was $7.00; 81 to 85 pounds, $6.75; 86 to 90 pounds, $6.50. 91 to 95 pounds $6.25 and 96 to 100 pounds, $6.00.

In all markets except the Chicago market, the prices will be 40 cents per 100 pounds below those at the Chicago basing point. Other basing points may be announced later, Thorn said.

GOOD BELIEVES STATE OFFICERS PAY CUTS VOID

Attorney General Says Constitution Bars Salary Slashes.

An opinion that the entire measure passed by the legislature this year to reduce salaries of state officers is unconstitutional was given Monday morning by Attorney General Paul F. Good.

The opinion was given to Auditor W. B. Price, who asked whether Henry Behrens, new member of the board of control, should be paid the old salary of $4,000 a year or the reduced wage of $3,200 as prescribed in S. F. 52, the legislative act in question. Good's opinion states that there are a number of reasons why Behrens should be paid $4,000 and expresses the belief that the entire act is invalid.

Written by Ayres.

The opinion was prepared by Assistant Attorney General George Ayres. Good said that he concurred entirely with it, however.

Should this view be upheld by the Supreme court, the work of the legislature toward reducing salaries of state officers would be annulled. The Supreme court already has held that the reductions cannot apply to constitutional officials now holding office because the constitution states their salaries cannot be lowered or raised during their terms. This ruling, however, left the way open for reductions to take effect for all officials who take the offices in the future.

S. F. 52 cut the salaries of the governor, Supreme court judges, district judges, tax commissioners, attorney general, secretary of state, auditor, land commissioner, board of control members, state superintendent, treasurer, railway commissioners and the heads of the following departments under the governor, agriculture, labor, health, highways, banking and insurance.

Might Cut Code Officers.

Should the courts knock out S. F. 52, the salaries of code department

Mayor Kelly, who declared his income tax troubles were a closed transaction, paid the government $70,000 tax and $35,000 penalty in 1932.

SCORE FEARED LOST IN FREAK ATLANTIC STORM

Violent Wind Suddenly Strikes New Jersey Coast Resort.

ATLANTIC CITY, N J., Aug. 21—(AP)—Seven persons were known to have drowned during a terrific nor'easter that lashed the Jersey coast yesterday, suddenly tossing comparatively calm seas into a fury and catching scores of fishing craft off guard.

Coast guardsmen wrote further rescue history against great odds, but feared another half-dozen fishermen aboard the craft Gertrude may have perished. The boat was the only one unreported late this morning of all those known to have been at sea when the storm broke.

The wind sent huge combers tumbling against the beach from Absecon to the tip of Cape May.

The bodies of four dead were recovered. They were:

Capt. Theodore Van Sant, 58
Louis Williams, 55, of Margate.
Harry R. Schmidt, 33, of Camden.

MUNY UTILITIES TO FOLLOW CODE

Doerr Voluntarily Puts City Employes On NRA Schedule.

Voluntary operation of the city water and light departments under the provisions of the NRA was announced Monday by Paul W. Doerr, head of the departments. Joining the NRA has given steady employment to fifteen new employes, Doerr said.

Commissioner Doerr declared, "The one great interest of the people now is in the re-employment of men who have been out of work. Our new arrangement includes every department from the office employes to our outside workers on electric lines and water maintenance."

Heretofore men at the water and light plant have been working 48 to 52 hours a week. Beginning Monday morning, those who have been working 52 hours were placed on a 48-hour status. Those working 48 hours will now work 40. The office men will find slight difference in their hours as their schedule has been 42 hours.

The greatest change will be for the electrical engineers at the Ashland water plant. Their new schedule will be 42 hours a week for five

ROOSEVELT SURE COAL CODE NEAR AND TAKES REST

Davis and Wooden to Be Visitors at Hyde Park Home.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 21—(AP)—President Roosevelt confidently awaited the new deal for the disordered coal industry today as the climax of his drive for better days for American working men and industry.

His last minute signature of the steel and oil charters Saturday night is regarded by leaders as an epochal step in the recovery campaign. So, the president relaxed today in his boyhood home on the banks of the Hudson looking forward to early conclusion of his campaign for a reorganized nation.

After a Sunday of rest with his family, Mr. Roosevelt was reserving himself for official business only as he went again to his wind-swept study in the high ceilinged home.

Sure Coal Code Near.

There is no doubt in the mind of the president that the code prescribing working hours and wages for the troubled bituminous coal industry will be forthcoming in the next two days. He realizes it is a difficult problem to bring into one working agreement the hundreds of companies which have been fighting for an edge. Also, the chief executive expects in the next two weeks all of the basic industries, including the giant automobile business, to come under the blue eagle.

Asked about reports that Henry Ford, who has not yet aligned himself with the automobile code, would hold out and go the rest of the industry one better, Mr. Roosevelt simply smiled.

The president reviewed with satisfaction his busy week in Wash-

STATE INVESTS HALF MILLION SURPLUS CASH

Treasurer Hall Puts Sum In Short Term U. S. Certificates.

An excess of cash on hand in the Nebraska treasury over the total amount that depository banks are entitled to carry under the sureties they have furnished to the state, together with a desire to put some of the surplus where it would earn a little interest instead of lying idle, has led State Treasurer Hall to purchase $500,000 of the new United States government short term certificates recently issued, which will mature for payment November 8.

Mr. Hall obtained these securities from a Chicago bond firm at a discount of approximately two-tenths of 1 per cent below face value, paying the sum of $499,890 for them. The difference between that sum and $500,000, or $1,110, is the interest return which the state will realize for the intervening period. This is at the rate of about 1¼ per cent a year.

Paid With Federal Checks.

He gave in payment checks and drafts of the United States government, chiefly federal aid road installments, which have been piling up in his hands for several months while federal and state agencies were getting lined up for the season's highway program.

The treasurer had a total of $656,309 in checks and drafts, nearly all of these representing federal allotments to the state of Nebraska which have not yet been spent. He was holding these credits in his electrically-protected burglar-proof

DWIGHT JONES GIVEN PAROLE

Judge Imposes Driving Ban in Manslaughter Sentence.

District Judge Frost Monday morning paroled Dwight Jones, 20, to Jack Leonard for a period of three years, during which time he is not to drive a passenger car in either Lancaster or Gage county. Last week Jones pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, and the matter of parole was at that time taken under advisement by Judge Frost.

On the evening of April 16 the car which Jones was driving struck and fatally injured Mrs Eva Cram, 64, of 836 Rose street as she was alighting from a street car at Twenty-second and South streets. He drove away from the scene of the accident but within an hour he appeared at the police station and told of what had happened. He drove away because of the urging of his girl companion, who became frightened he said

WEST O STREET PAVING LISTED FOR EARLY WORK

Bids To Be Asked About September 1; Would Eliminate Jog.

The paving on west O street, from the foot of the viaduct directly west to the D. L. D. highway, was announced by Governor Bryan Monday as one of the projects which would be included in the road construction program made possible out of federal funds.

If a suitable plan can be agreed upon to take care of the railroad crossing about midway between the viaduct and the D. L. D. proper, advertising of bids probably will begin September 1 and they will be opened September 20. The construction work would then start this fall

Requires Much Grading.

Cost of the project could not be estimated because of failure to reach a decision as to the railroad crossing according to the governor. It will include considerable grading in addition to the mile of paving, however.

The road now jogs sharply north from the west end of the viaduct for a block before turning sharply to the west on P street. A mile west on P street, the road again jogs south a block. The paving will eliminate all of these turns.

Consider Repaving O Street.

Governor Bryan also revealed that the state is considering repaving of O street. Estimates are being prepared as to the cost of this resurfacing and City Engineer David Erickson is to advise the state immediately acording to Bryan.

Expect Larger "City" Fund.

A dispatch from Washington Monday indicated that additional money probably will be available for work within cities so that Lan-

RAINS AID CORN AND APPLE CROPS

Moisture Over Week-end Is Termed Respite For Grain.

Rains which fell in spotted areas over the week-end should help the corn crop and also the outlook for the 1933 apple crop in southeastern Nebraska, horticulturists and agronomists at the Nebraska college of agriculture said Monday noon.

E. H. Hoppert, extension horticulturist at the college, was particularly jubilant about the rainfall in the southeastern area. It was needed in many sections there for the apples. The moisture, he said, will not only improve the quality of the apples and increase their size, but also check the codling moth infestation which has been quite serious this year.

Harvesting of Jonathan apples in the fruit growing district usually gets underway about the middle of September. Hoppert has estimated that the 1933 crop will yield around

COUZENS TAKES ANOTHER RAP AT DETROIT BANKS

Michigan Solon Charges Failed Institutions 'Kited Checks.'

DETROIT, Aug. 21—(AP)—United States Senator James Couzens, republican, Michigan, told the Detroit bank investigating jury here today that "there had been all kinds of 'kiting' of checks" in an effort to mislead the public as to the actual condition of the two national banks whose closing last February the jury is investigating.

The Michigan senator, declining to give the source of his information on the grounds that it was confidential, said he was "satisfied that if the prosecutor goes into the dealings between the groups he will find all kinds of kiting of checks. This is a very serious situation."

He declared such action was made "as the time for the regular examinations approached."

Attorneys Clash.

"I am informed that on one occasion the Detroit Trust company got $6,000,000 from the First National Bank-Detroit," he said. "It then turned around and deposited this $6,000,000 with the First National as a trust fund. The net effect of this was to show that each bank had $6,000,000 in cash more than it actually had."

Prosecutor Harry S. Toy and Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien, the latter the petitioner for the one-man bank jury, clashed during the morning over the introduction of some of Couzens' testimony. The attorney general, declaring he had called the jury, demanded that the prosecutor either "co-operate or withdraw from the case."

The dispute was stopped by Judge Harry B. Keidan, heading the jury, who ordered the hearing to proceed.

NRA DIRECTOR DRAFTING CODE FOR COAL MEN

Recovery Chief Will Submit Own Pact Today But Hesitates at "Take It or Leave It" Edict —House to House, Store to Store Blue Eagle Canvass Will Be Launched Next Monday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson and his recovery administrators strove today to tear away the obstacles blocking admission of the bituminous coal industry to membership in the long array of businesses that are following the blue eagled banner.

Determined that no time should be lost in lining up coal with steel, oil, lumber and cotton textiles, the recovery administration drafted its own code of competition for the mine operators and planned to present it to them some time during the day to be used as a basis of discussion.

It was understood, however, that Johnson was hesitating about issuing an edict of "take it or leave it." Rather, indications were that the recovery chief was continuing his efforts to reconcile the operators on a code of their own writing.

Taplin Favors $5 Wage

The outstanding difficulty surrounding the drafting of a coal code was the question of minimum wages. Johson has been told that miners throughout the country were expecting a $5 a day wage, with some slight differential for the south, and that labor strife would be likely if any smaller wage were provided On the other hand he has been told by a large part of the coal industry that the $5 a day wage would mean their economic death.

Frank E. Taplin, a Cleveland railroad and mine owner, conferred with Johson this morning, but declined to discuss the conversation. Taplin has been among the operators supporting

As Rogers Sees It

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 21 — My friend Johnson, the code man, was going too fast for me so I left him. His code for himself and staff is 35 hours, not a week, but 35 a day.

If he ever goes to sleep, he won't wake up till Xmas.

Here is the best one happened in Washington, all the big oil men of course were there, and that of course meant a big poker game. Any time two oil men meet, they don't open a filling station, they open a poker game. Then, an oil man never travels without his big lawyer. Then, in another room the lawyers have a crap game.

In the poker game for the first time it was all cash on the table. No checks. They didn't trust each other. That's their new code.

The lawyers used their same old code, of cash. They had never trusted each other.

Yours, WILL.

P. S.—Now for the big polo game to watch the west take the east, like Huey Long took Louisiana. (The west won, 12 to 6.)

Meyer, 39, 1907 Garfield street, suffered slight cuts on his left arm. Meyer was going west on Sumner street, and the Parkhurst car was proceeding south on Sixteenth when the accident occurred. Both cars were damaged.

DeVere Improving—Paul G. DeVere, jr., 21, Lincoln youth who was shot by officers during a break-in recently, is steadily improving Dr. George E. Lewis reported Monday morning. An X-ray examination showed only two of the twelve pellets discharged from the shot gun lodged in the left leg. Dr. Lewis said that there have been no signs of infection or internal injuries and that DeVere's temperature is normal.

Cars Collide—A car driven by I. R. Dana collided shortly after noon Monday with an auto driven by Harold O'Connor, 2717 South Fourteenth street. Both cars were going west on Washington street, and the collision occurred when O'Connor started to turn south on Seventeenth Dana's car was damaged slightly.

Hodge Speaks—George Hodge, state re-employment director for the federal government, gave a talk before the local 40 and 8 voiture at its noon luncheon Monday in the Hotel Cornhusker. He discussed the aspects of the federal recovery program as it affects war veterans. On Tuesday, Mr. Hodge will address the Lincoln Rotary club at its luncheon in the Lincoln hotel, giving an outline of the work his organization is doing.

Divorce Petitions — Veda Fay Waugh petitioned the District court for a decree of divorce from William Waugh, to whom she was married at Superior in 1914. She charges cruelty and nonsupport and asks the custody of their minor son. Sylvia A. Countryman seeks a divorce from Archie M. Countryman on the grounds of cruelty and nonsupport. They were married at Mankato, Kas., in 1910 and have five minor children, whose custody the plaintiff asks. Judge Frost granted to Maude A. Bell a decree of divorce from William L. Bell, who was charged with cruelty and non-support He is to pay her $10 per month for the support of their minor child.

officials might be lowered instead of increased, however. This is because the code repeal bill, passed prior to S. F. 52, cut their salaries heavily. S. F. 52 gave them increases over the amounts in the code repeal bill, although leaving them below the salaries which had been paid under the old code system.

The reason why the attorney general's office thinks S. F. 52 invalid follows:

"x x The legislature had no power to change the salary of a constitutional state officer then in office during the term for which he had been elected or appointed. It is extremely unlikely that S. F. 52 would have been passed if the legislature had understood that the salary of no constitutional state officer then in office would be changed during the term for which he was elected or appointed. If this is true, the whole act must fall." It falls for the reason that where an invalid portion of an act formed an inducement to the passage of the residue the whole act fails."

As far as Behrens' salary is concerned, he is protected against a reduction because H. R. 14 was passed after S. F. 52. H. R. 14 reenacted the old salary of $4,000.

The opinion also says that H. R. 52 failed to live up to the constitutional provision that no law shall be amended unless the new act contains the section as amended and states that the old section is repealed.

FIELDER KILLS SELF IN JUMP

Victim Left Note Asking Wife Living in Nebraska Be Notified.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 — (INS) — Harry C. Fielder, alias Harry Franklin, 62, formerly of Chicago and Cincinnati, O., jumped to his death from the tenth floor of a hotel here today a few hours before he was to have appeared in court to answer a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He died instantly.

Fielder was arrested here on August 10 in the company of three persons who police said were two well-known confidence men and a woman. A spring-back knife was found in his pocket and he was booked on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Two notes were found in Fielder's room after he jumped to his death. One explained that he was to appear in court this morning. The other asked that his wife who lives in Franklin, Neb., but who is visiting in Waterloo, Neb., be notified.

STATE INVESTS HALF MILLION

office vault, while nearly all cash is deposited in banks.

Now, through one of the Lincoln banks, Treasurer Hall is exchanging the greater part of the government's checks and drafts for its interest-bearing notes. The notes are now in possession of the federal reserve bank at Kansas City, and Hall will leave them there for safekeeping until maturity.

"I have already deposited state funds in banks beyond the regular limit," Treasurer Hall said, explaining his purchase of the certificates, "and it was advisable to do something else with the federal remittances that have been accumulating.

$2,722,775 In Banks.

"My books show today that the state has $2,722,775 cash on deposit with banks. The state holds something like $3,000,000 of bonds put up by the banks as security for repayment of the money. Ordinarily we require 20 per cent more bonds than the amount of cash deposited, but just now the margin is a little less than that in some instances. I did not want to stretch the deposits any further and so decided to buy the government securities."

As another way to hold down cash on hand, Hall is distributing almost a quarter of a million dollars in gasoline tax money to the counties two weeks ahead of time. That sum is being checked out of depository banks to county treasurers. The distribution is usually made the first of each month from revenues of the preceding month. As most of the gas tax income is received by the fifteenth, Hall thought it would be just as well to make the allotment for August at this time.

He is still carrying $1,200,000 of United States bonds turned over by his predecessor as cash in the treasury. If any of these were sold, it would be necessary to secure additional security from banks in order to deposit the money with them. It is easier to keep the bonds, and the state gets the benefit of 3 and 3 1-8 per cent interest on them, besides.

Cash balances in all state funds at this time, counting in the U. S. bonds and the certificates just purchased, together with checks and drafts still on hand, aggregates about $4,579,000, having increased more than a quarter of a million dollars since August 1.

helped in household chores. About 8:30, he announced that he planned to clean up and make a trip to the business session.

A few moments later he stumbled out of the bathroom with his throat cut and the razor in his hand. He made his way through the kitchen to the back yard, where he fell dead. County officials summoned Dr. H. AT. Taylor, but the man had apparently died even before the officers arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were alone in the house at the time. Mrs. Jackson was prostrated by grief, and was placed under the physician's care.

Besides his wife, Mr. Jackson is survived by eight daughters, Mrs. Cassidy, Mrs. Anna Roop of Oshkosh, Mrs. Alice Peterson of Arthur, Mrs. Margaret Cross of Chappell, Mrs. Alta Campbell of Lisco, Mrs. Irene McCoy of Lewellen, and Misses Helen and Geraldine, both of Lewellen; and three sons, Frank of Milwaukee, Carl of Lewellen and Roy of Lincoln. The body is at Castle, Roper & Matthews' mortuary pending funeral arrangements.

BERLOVICH IS FREED ON BOND

worth of Liberty bonds stolen in the $2,000,000 robbery of the Lincoln National bank of Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 17, 1930.

Berlovich was arrested Saturday on a county attorney's information charging that on Oct. 30, 1930 he sold the bonds to the Iowa-Des Moines National bank. It also alleges that he sold an additional $10,000 worth of bonds to a Des Moines investment firm which later sold them to the local bank.

The information was sworn out following the testimony of Joe Newell, special investigator for the Illinois Bankers association, that Berlovich had admitted receiving the bonds from an "Eddie La Rue."

Robbery Charge Dismissed.

Dewey M. Berlovich was brought into the Lincoln bank robbery investigation on No. 6, 1930, when he was arrested in Chicago. Fifteen thousand dollars worth of bonds from the Lincoln bank were found in his possession in addition to the $6,500 worth of bonds sold to the Des Moines bank.

Berlovich at that time did not deny possession of the bonds but claimed he purchased them of a man who won them in a dice game. Berlovich was not tried on the charge of receiving stolen propperty, which now faces him, but was brought to Lincoln to face a bank robbery charge. After Berlovich presented an alibi showing that he was in Minden, Ia., the day of the robbery, the charge against him was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Later Berlovich was acquitted of a charge of taking part in a $90,000 robbery of an Ottumwa, Ia., bank. In May of this year, he was accused of conspiring to evade payment of gasoline tax but this complaint was dismissed.

Berlovich was listed as a salesman for a paving corporation in Des Moines and was reputed to be well-to-do, living in a fine home in that city. At the present time he is operating a beer garden, according to Des Moines papers.

Missouri Wet Chiefs Turn From Victory to Study of Liquor Laws

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21—(AP)—Anti-prohibition leaders of Missouri, successful Saturday in their fight for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment today turned their attention to the formation of an organization which will suggest regulatory laws for traffic control in the state.

Unofficial reports from 3,500 of the state's 4,104 precincts showed 483,455 ballots for repeal and 135,400 against the action.

The sixty-eight repeal delegates chosen in the election will convene Aug. 29, in Jefferson City to act favorably on the pending Twenty-first amendment which repeals the Eighteenth.

WEST O STREET PAVING LISTED FOR EARLY WORK

coln's chances of obtaining the O street resurfacing seem brighter. The federal bureau of public roads said that information submitted by State Engineer Roy Cochran was "insufficient" to show justification for transferring federal highway funds from municipal projects to other roads. The government wants Nebraska to use 25 per cent of its $7,800,000 allotment on projects within cities, 25 per cent on feeder roads and 50 per cent on federal highways. The state authorities had favored spending only 12½ per cent of the fund within municipalities.

Start of the west O street repaving project now hinges on the Burlington devising a plan to eliminate the traffic hazard from its tracks crossing the road. Construction of an underpass had been considered according to Bryan, but would be quite expensive. The railroad tracks would have to be raised four or five feet to permit building an underpass.

May Re-Route Traffic.

The Burlington is attempting to route its traffic so that both passenger and freight trains would use other tracks, according to the governor.

"The need of straightening the road can't be overestimated," Governor Bryan declared. "There has been a death hazard on all four of the turns. The main object of the work is to provide employment but it is being used where the public will get the most benefit. I don't know of the place where the public will get more benefit from the work than this project."

Governor Bryan also announced that bids will be called about September 20 for the first half of a $600,000 Douglas county project. This is the widening of the Dodge street entrance to Omaha as far as Millard turn. Bids first will be taken on the project outside of the city.

Work will be done by hand and team labor except where federal officials find this too expensive.

Bryan Talks of "Collusion."

Relative to the foregoing projects and others that may be undertaken soon, Governor Bryan said he hoped there would be no collusion among bidders to shove prices up higher than they should be.

"There was strong evidence of such collusion in the bids we recently rejected for bituminous mat paving in western Nebraska," he declared. "Each firm submitting proposals was low on one of them and high on all the rest.

"If it should appear at the next letting that bidders have got together and agreed on prices, I will start prosecution against them for illegal combination," he added. "The bids will be scrutinized carefully."

Gravel Figures Unsatisfactory.

State Purchasing Agent Farris received and opened bids Monday forenoon on three state highway gravel projects; but they were all on a level much higher than the state has been paying hitherto for that material. Instead of awarding contracts, therefore, Mr. Farris turned the proposals over to the state highway department for its examination.

Comparisons with previous bids will be prepared for the attention of Governor Bryan. Should it be decided to reject all these offers, the state may arrange to buy gravel itself and hire local trucks to spread it on the roads, instead of letting the work out to contractors. The new bids are as follows:

Regraveling state highway No. 2 between Seward and Utia, 838 cubic yards; low bid, $2 07 by Abel Construction Co., Lincoln; high bid, $2.17

Detour on U. S highway No. 6 between Dorchester and Friend, 3,373 cubic yards; low bid, $1 89 by Yant Construction Co., Omaha; high bid, $2.01

Detour on U. S. highway No. 73 between Blair and Herman, 1,423 cubic yards; low bid, $2.14 by Koehler Construction Co., Sterling; high bid, $2.25.

Asphalt at Bottom Price.

A carload of rock asphalt was bought by the state purchasing agent Monday, for delivery at the highway department's material yard inLincoln, at $5.75 per ton, the lowest price the state has ever paid for that material. The Kansas Rock Asphalt Co. of Pleasanton, Kas. got the award. The shipment will be about 60 tons.

Recently another carload was bought from a Missouri firm at $6.25 a ton, which was a record-breaking low figure at that time. The state used to pay up to $14 a ton. Competition between two producing fields in the nearby states is responsible for the lower prices.

Six thousand steel posts, 7 feet long, for state highway signs will be bought from the Laclede Steel Co., St. Louis, on its low bid of 25.55 cents each. The total amount will be a little over $1,500, including 2 per cent discount for cash payment. There are six bids in all.

men. Four men have been doing the work, each working 56 hours a week. The change cannot be wholly completed at this plant until the regular employes there have all finished their vacations.

The code will increase the personnel of the water and light departments from 70 to 85 men, Doerr said. For those who come under the hour basis of pay, the wage will be increased from 35 cents an hour to 40.

Operating the two departments under the provisions of the code, Mr. Doerr declared, is in line with practices elsewhere. The Omaha Metropolitan district, Fremont, Hastings, and Grand Island have joined the NRA, he said.

The new policy has the full endorsement of the water department advisory board. Approval has also been voiced by Doerr's colleagues on the city council.

Commissioner Harm, head of the municipal gasoline and coal departments, has not yet decided what he will do about NRA compliance. He is going ahead with plans for the change, however.

Kier Receives NRA Letter.

Further confirmation of word that anything he does is purely voluntary, was received Monday by Mr. Harm in a letter from the NRA to City Attorney Max Kier. The letter indicates plainly, however, a hope that the gasoline station will be brought into the code.

John D. Moore, chief of the NRA complaints section, says in a letter to Kier that he has been informed in a letter from Charles Sutherland, secretary of the Nebraska Petroleum Marketers, Inc., that the municipal station was set up by a vote of the people. "That would seem to settle definitely in the affirmative whether the station should exist and do business," he says. Aside from accounting, the only other question is the "one of interest to all people—the greatest good to the greatest number," and "the presumption that you will deal fairly with commercial stations."

Moore's letter to Mr. Kier was in answer to one that the attorney had written outlining the "exact status of the municipal station." It confirms fully the contention of the legal department head, that bringing the municipal utilities under control of the code, is purely voluntary.

SCORE FEARED LOST IN FREAK ATLANTIC STORM

day's storm, were rescued today when the Jeanette a cabin cruiser, was washed ashore here.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 21—(AP)—The coast guard feared today that a score of persons may have died in a freak northeaster that battered the New Jersey and Long Island coast with giant waves yesterday.

Four persons are known to have drowned, two others were almost certainly lost and at least three boats with perhaps twenty passengers were missing.

At least 100 craft—many of them carrying amateur fishermen—were off this coast yesterday when the storm struck suddenly. With the violence almost of a hurricane, but without a drop of rain, it sent gigantic combers crashing to shore from Absecon inlet almost to Cape May.

Coast Guard Leads Rescue.

Boats were overturned and bathers overwhelmed in the gnashing waves. Only heroic rescue work, in which the coast guard took a leading part, prevented a much longer death list.

Three of the known dead lost their lives off this coast, and the fourth, Joseph Muller of Union City, N. J., was drowned while bathing off Rockaway Point, L. I. The boats listed as missing today were the Renar, the Irene and the Gertrude, all of the Steelman fleet.

A sailing vessel and a speedboat co-operated to save six passengers of the 30-foot sail boat, Ella, in what one witness called "the most heroic act I ever witnessed," but the boat's skipper, Theodore Van Sant, 58, drowned. Harry R. Smith of Camden, lost his life when the Anna M., capsized, but three others with him were rescued by another fishing boat. Ernest Williams, 60, of Ventnor, was the third known to have lost his life, when the Goldie R. was overturned, but there, too, was an example of the heroic efforts on the part of rescuers, as five others on the same craft were saved.

Taking part in the gallant work of saving lives were professional fishing fleets, private speed boats, and the coast guard's two 75-foot patrol boats, a destroyer, six surf boats and six speed boats.

In addition, James Allen, who operates five fishing craft, all of which were out at sea, saved many others when he chartered a plane as soon as he noticed the strange behavior of the seas inshore and dropped messages of warning to his skippers, who, in turn, notified others.

A the local weather bureau, it was explained the freak storm was due to a "kick-back" of a tropical disturbance.

ROOSEVELT SURE COAL CODE NEAR AND TAKES REST

ington which he feels brought the national recovery drive close to the goal of fulfillment by Labor day.

To See Davis, Woodin.

During his stay here, Mr. Roosevelt is counting upon as near a rest as is allowed the chief executive of the United States.

Tomorrow he will see Norman H. Davis, his ambassador-at-large in Europe, and Mrs. Davis. The special envoy is ready to return to seek early success for the Geneva disarmament parley and Mr. Roosevelt is particularly interested in talking to him about this. During the week he also expects to receive his secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin. Upon the results of this talk it is expected that a decision will be made by the president and Mr. Woodin on whether the latter's health will permit him to continue in office.

Demands are coming in upon the president for visits and speeches in this neighborhood. But he is reserving everything to permit himself to keep the closest contact with Washington and the recovery campaign. Stephen T. Early, a secretary, is in charge of a special White House office in Poughkeepsie and the telephone and telegraph are keeping Mr. Roosevelt right on top of things.

the $5 a day wage advocated by the United Mine Workers of America. He also has urged the administration to use a firm hand in dealing with the industry and get out a code as soon as possible.

Turns To Coal Problem.

As soon as President Roosevelt approved codes for the basic steel and oil industries late Saturday night, Johnson and his aides turned immediately to coal, a stumbling block for weeks.

When a committee of fifteen coal operators were unable to agree again yesterday, Johnson started writing his own to place before them today. The coal men will be able to suggest amendments to this trade charter, but they will not be permitted to renew their wrangling.

Conferences are to be held this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday, with officials of the automobile industry. Indications were that the open shop and maximum hour issues raised by the automobile code presented last week will be satisfactorily and speedily settled.

Enrollment of steel and oil under the NRA was regarded by Johnson as the crux of his task to get the major industries signed up under hour-shortening, wage-increasing agreements. With that done he announced plans for launching the campaign, patterned after the Liberty loan drives, to take the blue eagle into every store and hom.

1,500,000 Volunteer Workers.

National figures, including Alfred E. Smith, John D. Rockefeller, jr., and Speaker Henry T. Rainey, will take part. One million, five hundred thousand volunteer workers already have been organized for this drive, as well as to check up on employers and uncover violations by those who fail to increase wages and add new help.

Codes for fourteen industries have been approved, including four of the major industries, cotton textiles, lumber, Oil and steel. In addition more than 100 are operating under temporary agreements, 17 approved yesterday. Within the next ten day, 21 hearings on permanent codes will be held.

Oil leaders today were interesting themselves in the make-up of the committee of fifteen to be appointed within a week by Mr. Roosevelt to administer the new oil code with its modified price control regulations and provisions for limting marketing.

At the same time, steel officials began the important changes in operation required of them, one of the first tasks being the preparation and filing with the iron and steel institute of a list of prices.

on highways and other public works, with the object of a hasty business improvement, by giving jobs to those who would otherwise be unemployed. We are asked by the state director of re-employment, George Hodge, to undertake this work for this county.

"Public works that become available in this region must be cleared by the contractors through our office, as well as city and county government work.

"We want to urge that all unemployed people, no matter what their trade or profession, register at our temporary headquarters at Seventeenth and P street. It is the plan of the committee to maintain these temporary quarters for his purpose during this week. A large number of unemployed people have volunteered to interview applicants and to give other clerical services.

Register Women Later.

"Since the registration will continue during the week, it will not be necessary for all unemployed to try to register the first day, for an opportunity will be given to all to register during the week. For the time being we are not taking registrations of women, but will make an announcement later as to the time when they may present themselves.

"If those who are unemployed will co-operate with our committee, we believe we will be able to present facts to our various governmental bodies as well as private employers, to stir them to action, to provide public works as well as private employment, in order that we might relieve this stress that is with us.

"In the meantime, we urge employers to consult with the city and state employment office at 1010 P street, phone B7035 for any services they may want in the way of employment. If the unemployed will co-operate with us to the full extent by registering, the committee will do its utmost wih public officials and employers to secure employment."

The members of the Lancaster county employment committee who are directing this activity are: C. B. Towle, chairman, Herman Jobst, P. R. Chapman, Miss Margaret Anderson and Louis W. Horne.

RAINS AID CORN AND APPLE CROPS

350,000 bushels this year or 55 to to 60 per cent of a normal crop and far above that of 1932.

D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the college of agriculture, also said the rains should have benefited the corn in some areas. Gross, who has spent considerable time in the northeastern section on wheat work, says corn in most counties there looks pretty good. It is not so good around Aurora .

"The moisture should help farmers who are preparing their seedbeds for fall planting of wheat," Gross said. "They have been handicapped and delayed this year due to the dry condition of the soil. In regard to alfalfa, the rains should help the third cutting."

A. E. Anderson, the state-federal agricultural expert, said that rains of a quarter inch up reported in this area would keep the corn from burning, conserve moisture already in the ground and give the grain time to fill out, but they did not insure a crop.

"In spots where an inch or more fell," he conceded, "a crop probably is insured now unless the grain was damaged previously by drouth. But a third of an inch of rain is just a respite."

Crop Assured In Northeast.

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 21—(AP)—Week-end rains, said by crop experts to assure most sections of northeast Nebraska of a bumper corn yield, ranged from one-fourth to two inches in this section and the Rosebud region of South Dakota.

The Northwestern railway issued the following rain report:

South Omaha to Fremont, one-fourth to one-half inch, Nickerson to Stanton, three-fourth to one and one-half inches, Battle Creek, one-third inch; Tilden, one inch, Neligh, three-fourths; Clearwater to Stafford, one-half inch, Inman, one-fourth inch, O'Neill to Long Pine, light rain.

Albion line, one-half to one inch, Hadar, one inch, Pierce, one and one-half inches, Plainview two inches Creighton to Niobrara one-half to three-fourths Verdel to Anoka, one-fourth to one-half inch, Herrick, Burke and Colome, S. D., one-half inch

St. Paul Doctor Again Abducted And Given Drugs

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 21—(AP)—Another mystery involving Dr. W. H. Hedberg, St. Paul chiropractor, confronted police today as they ordered him held in a hospital for investigation.

Dr. Hedberg, last month alleged intended victim of an attempted mutilation operation, which failed was found in a railway yard here yesterday and was taken unconscious to a hospital.

He was cut, bruised and apparently under the influence of narcotics, a police physician said. His condition was regarded as not serious. There were five punctures near his right elbow, apparently made by a hypodermic needle, the physician said.

Dr. Hedberg disappeared Saturday night after telephoning his wife he was on his way home. Police learned he was seen later by a freight crew in a railroad box car. What happened afterwards until he was found beside a railroad track nearby, police had not determined. They planned to question him when his condition permits.

On July 12, Dr. Hedberg and Dr. E. J. Engberg, St. Paul physician and secretary of the Minnesota board of medical examiners, were summoned from their homes through fake telephone calls.

They were kidnaped and police were told Dr. Engberg was asked by unidentified persons to perform a mutilating operation on Dr. Hedberg. Dr. Engberg refused and was drugged. The next morning he and Dr. Herberg were found on a country road, a short distance from each other.

Authorities have not learned the identity of the attackers or their motive.

Donation of Fruit Jars Asked To Aid Lincoln Unemployed

The HIDDEN DOOR

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: A fog drives Colin Hewitt and Germaine Tremblay ashore while she is taking him to try to deliver a mysterious letter to an equally mysterious man named Joe Labarre, who may be at a still more mysterious fishing club near Cap a l'Orage, Germaine's home. They hear two men talking in the fog and learn that the "club" is a den of thieves and that Lazarre is one of them. Colin is in terror of the Mask, Lazarre's employer, and has used an alias. Now he decides to tell Germaine the truth about himself.

Chapter 17.
GERMAINE'S PROMISE.

"No?" Germaine inquired softly? "And do you always go armed? It is rather obvious that this club here is very far removed from the innocent paradise of sportsmen that it pretends to be! What are you? A detective?"

"Oh, Lord, no!" He forced a laugh. "But I've created a lot of them—rather moldy ones, I'm afraid, I'm Colin Hewitt. I write books."

"I know the name," she said, "and I suppose, to be really true to form, I ought to say that I have read and loved every book you have ever written, and—"

"Don't!" he groaned.

"I won't," she assured him calmly. "I admit I have never read even one of them."

"You wouldn't," he stated confidently. "I don't write the sort of stuff that would appeal to you Just thrillers—as bloodthirsty and as horribly creepy as possible, of course I've never written a love story, for instance, in my life."

"Oh! And why not?"

"Because I can't," he confessed. "There has to be a girl because the dear publishers insist on it, but the best I can do is most awfully unconvincing—I just have to drag her in by the hair of the head."

He heard her laugh ripple under her breath.

"Just like I've been dragged in tonight?"

"Well—er—yes, in a way," he stammered. "But this isn't a story."

"Nevertheless, I rather like it — being dragged in by the hair of the head—so far," she confided. "But why this sudden shedding of your cloak, Mr. Hewitt—or shoul I say, Mr. Howard?"

"I see you haven't judged me harshly—offhand," he said, gratefully.

"Judgment reserved," she answered. "I asked you a question."

"Because," he said earnestly, "I want to exact a promise from you that, for the time being at least, you won't say anything about what has happened tonight."

"Isn't that a very strange request?" Her voice was suddenly serious. "I don't understand."

"I want to tell you a little story," he said quietly. "Do you mind? I will be just as brief as I can"

"I am listening," she invited.

The minutes passed—many of them. The story did not lend itself to brevity. There was too much to tell, so many sidelights, if she was to understand. And so he told her of Annie, and French Pete and the Mask, and Reddy Turner's murder. Everything—except his promise to Reddy, and the actual purpose of his visit to Butch Connal's room.

"And so you see," he ended, "why at present I am a man without a home and without a name. That brings us to tonight. I haven't said anything so far about Lazarre; but I have reason to hope that I can get him to help me pick up the Mask's trail. That's why I asked for your promise."

"You have my promise," she said simply.

And somehow in the darkness their hands met. She did not draw hers away. And for a moment they sat thus in silence. He was not tongue-tied now—he was fighting to hold back the rush of words that were on his lips. He cou'd not bring her intimately into his life as matters stood. It would not be fair to her—if he found that she cared. It would only be inviting her into danger of the ugliest kind.

His hand tightened warmly over hers and then released it.

"That's ripping of you!" he said "I don't need to tell you that the club, in its own parlance, will be taken for a ride in due course—and the road won't be any the smoother because of the delay."

"What do you think they are doing there?" she asked.

"I haven't the faintest idea," he said.

"But Lazarre?" she questioned. "I don't understand about Lazarre. You haven't told me who he is, or how you know he was down here."

"No," he said frankly; "I haven't. And I am afraid that is one of the things that I am not at liberty to tell you. Personally, I do not see any reason now why you should not know, but I gave my word and I have no choice other than to keep it. I'm not throwing cold water, am I?"

"Oh, no!" she declared emphatically. "Of course you're not! I can quite understand. But there is one question I do want to ask. You said you hoped to get Lazarre to help you to pick up the Mask's trail You remember that one of those two men just said something about W. P.? That was what was on the card you found in the pocket of the man you fought with in Reddy Turner's old room, wasn't it?"

"You go up head," he applauded. "Well, that pretty definitely proves that the club here is one of the Mask's enterprises doesn't it?" she demanded. "And therefore that Lazarre is one of the Mask's men? How can you expect help from him?"

"That's the only other thing I can't explain to you," he said. "except to say that I am armed with an approach to Lazarre which may mean everything—or nothing. I do not know any more than you do what it's worth until I have talked with him."

"This whole thing is terrible!" she exclaimed "It is almost impossible to believe that a fiend such as you have pictured the Mask to be, exists as a human being."

Colin laughed shortly

"He exists all right. Witness Mr Howard But let's not talk about him for a moment There's a question or two I'd like to ask you. Tell me all you can about the club itself."

"I can't tell you very much," she said "I've seen it, of course, but only from a distance when I've been out in my boat. It looks very nice, and father says it is very comfort ably fitted up inside with electric light and—"

"Electric light!" Colin interrupted quickly. "That's interesting! That means they-ve got a power plant of some sort. I suppose they've harnessed up the river a bit."

"I suppose so," she said, "though I don't know very much about such things. But there are some falls right beside the club house, and I don't imagine it would be a very difficult thing to do."

"You mean it's what one would expect? All the creature comforts. Mr. Waldrow Kenniston wouldn't be without them, of course. Well, is there anything else you can tell me?"

"No," she replied thoughtfully; "I don't think so. I have already told you that no one from the club ever comes near Cap a l'Orage, so I have no personal knowledge of them."

"I see," he said—and fell silent for a moment How best to make contact with Lazarre? "Look here," he said abruotly, "I know there are no roads out of Cap a l'Orage, but there is nothing to prevent one from going overland to the club is there?"

"Not if you have the agility of a mountain goat and are an expert woodsman," she answered laughingly. "You would cut the time in half too, for I don't suppose, as the crow flies, it would be more than three and a half miles from the village to the club."

"That's also interesting," he said. "As far as agility is concerned, I think I would be prepared to take a chance; but as for the other qualification—well, perhaps you know someone who could supply it?"

She thought for an instant.

"The best man in the village at that sort of thing," she said, "is an old timber cruiser named Anatole Bouchard. He speaks very good English too, but—"

"Bouchard?" he broke in "—what sort of a man is he? Is he to be trusted?"

"If you paid him enough to make it worth his while."

Her hand reached out. He felt her fingers close tensely on his arm.

"Why all these questions about going overland to the club?" she asked. "You heard what those two men said. I—I am afraid. What do you intend to do?"

"Not a thing," he laughed disarmingly. "except to arrange a little private interview with Monsieur Jos Lazarre."

Religion Should Be Vital Part Of Life, States Rev. Catton

Rev. William Robert Catton of Montrose, Colo., told his audience at First Plymouth Congregational church Sunday morning that religion should be more than just a change from the ordinary stream of life; it should be a vital part of living.

"Religion," said Rev. Catton, who was guest pastor in the absence of Rev. Ben F. Wyland, "has become rather like the actions of the 'flying fish' in the way that it is applied to our modern lives. We get at religion for only a few moments on Sunday and then we are back in the stream of life just as the fish leaps out of the water for a time and then resumes his natural course."

Jack Wheelock sang a vocal number. Wilbur Chenoweth was at the church organ.

Parents Receive Wire From Youths Rumored Missing in Snowcostorm

Rumors that Waldo E. Minford and Porter Cannon, Lincoln youths, were among those lost in the severe snowstorm which last week hit the Colorado Rockies were spiked. Monday morning, when Minford's father received a wire reporting that the boys were all right and were starting for home at once.

Cannon, son of H B. Cannon, 1245 South Twenty-third, and Minford, son of W. H Winford, 1621 Euclid, have been over the continental divide near Canyon City on a two-weeks camping trip.

ANTI-MACHADO HATRED FLARES ANEW IN CUBA

Cabinet Is Trying To Solve Hard Problems of Economic Peace.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 21—(AP)—Julio Heredia, former henchman of Arsenio Ortiz, military official in the Machado regime who was accused of numerous political killings, was shot and killed by a mob today.

The body was dragged through the streets. The mob captured Heredia after he had been taken from the courthouse by members of the ABC society, which was one of the principal organizations in the overthrow of President Machado.

Major Ortiz sailed for Germany last June, having been exiled by the government after numerous killings of which he was accused.

HAVANA, Aug. 21—(AP)—Punishment for leaders of a hate-crazed mob which took from its new grave the body of Gerardo Machado's police chief and burned and mutilated it was demanded today by several departments of the week-old Cuban government.

As the cabinet of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes tried to solve the hard problems of economic peace, there were other evidences of continuing hatred of the previous regime

A manhunt for the few remaining Machadists went on; leaders of the opposition who had been forced into exile were coming back, and soldiers and members of the A B C secret society began digging again in Atares castle for bodies of those who died because of opposition to the Machado regime.

Antonio B. Ainciart, villified as the director of bloody and repressive measures under the deposted president, committed suicide Saturday night while soldiers and A B C men closed in on his hiding place.

Body Is Mutilated.

As soon as soldiers left his place of burial, 2,000 shouting persons opened the fresh grave, took the body in a truck to Havana university, mutilated it, and hoisted it to the cross bar of an electric light pole.

Thousands watched the mob pour gasoline over it and apply a match. Finally the crew of an ambulance scattered the crowd and took the remains to a morgue.

"Dump it into the sea!" shouted the mob. "Dump it into the sea! He is not fit to be buried in a cemetery with other human beings!"

Shortly before the mob began forming Juan Sampol, nephew and body guard of Ainciart, shot and killed himself after being recognized by a boy on a street corner. First, however, Sampol had killed Jose Aquirre Leon, A B C member.

Solons Resign.

In provisional President de Cespedes' hands were the resignations of a large number of congressmen and senators who quit in a body "to facilitate a solution of Cuban problems."

The acceptance of only a part of the resignations was expected so that congress would be enabled quickly to ratify emergency economic and congressional legislation, diplomatic appointments, financial operations, and treaties.

A three weeks harbor strike appeared near sclution as strikers and shipping operators showed a disposition to concede certain points, the chief of which involves recognition of unions.

Among the exiles home again is former President Mario G. Menocal, who lived in Miami. Col. Carlos Mendieta, who opposed Machado's nomination in 1924, was expected to arrive from the United States today.

Success of Graduates Of Indian Mission School Told by Rev. Rice

His work as a missionary in a boys boarding school in Damoh, India, was reviewed by Rev Ray E. Rice, who filled the pulpit of the First Christian church Sunday morning.

Rev. Rice told of the training of youths for teaching and preaching and also discussed the program for the teaching of industrial trades.

"More than 1,500 young men have been graduated from our school," Rev. Rice said, "and hundreds of them are filling positions of importance in the civil life of India. All educated young men are vitally interested in the work of Mahatma Gandhi and his campaign in behalf of the untouchables However, few Christians are joining the civil disobedience campaign."

No Thanks, Says Paris
One Busy President
Hard on Gold Miners
Three Wise Doctors
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

The gangster idea appears in Paris. A big Champs Elysees cafe owner is ordered to place 150,000 francs at a certain spot, or watch his cafe go up in the air.

One hundred and fifty thousand francs are only $8,050 and would make American gangsters smile at "piker Frenchmen." But it is a start.

The French newspaper Intransigeant, run in the old days by the powerful Henri Rochefort, says, with a justified sideswipe at this country: "Neither cafes nor banks will be blown up in Paris, because, in order for gangsterism and kidnaping to become national industries there must be assured immunity, complicity on the part of the authorities and complacent public opinion."

Some unpleasant truth in that.

You have a busy president working for you Last week he:

Sent warships to Cuba, and then brought them back.

Speeded up everything in the line of recovery.

Got an NRA code from the reluctant steel industry, for a 90-day experiment.

Took charge himself of the oil industry code.

Authorized spending $70,000,000 more, on work and jobs to help prosperity.

Planned trading business and tariff arrangements with Latin America.

Considered inflation carefully, without committing himself, like a small boy in April, with one toe in the pond, asking "how is the water?"

The water really is "fine," or would be, if the president would only plunge in. You cannot inflate to increase spending, or help business by merely giving the national dollar a kick.

This country pays in paper only the old gold dollar price for gold at the mint which is 25 to 30 per cent below its dollar value, in other countries. To help American gold producers our government allows American gold ore, also concentrates and precipitates, to be shipped to Canada for refining.

There in American dollars the gold owner can get the full international price, $1.25 to $1.30 for a dollar's worth of gold, and perhaps, later $1.50 or $2.

The dollar is dropping. Do you wonder? Our government announces that it is paper, not gold. Our prices go up, the dollar falls.

Refusal of this government to buy gold at its world value—as Canada and Britain do—is hard on America's mining industry. Shipping gold ore and concentrates to Canada means idleness of United States smelting and refining plants, and idleness for United States workmen, and loss of money to Americans that have invested great sums in plants to use low grade ores.

Since our dollar is officially paper, there is no use hiding our heads in the sand. Government should buy gold at the world price of the paper dollar and keep the gold here or at least permit the sale abroad of gold produced and refined here by our labor.

We evidently cannot make up our minds to start the inflation that prosperity demands, and may therefore decide to go back to the gold basis, announcing "all a mistake boys, the god dollar is back."

Observations from three doctors that you might remember advantageously:

Dr. Evan Evans, who lives at the top of the medical profession, says "many doctors have still to learn that when the operation is more dangerous than the condition to be remedied, the surgeon should not operate."

Dr. Mayo, back from Europe says beware of the newly hatched medical "specialist." Says he 'the boy comes out of the school and immediately hangs out his shingle as a specialist having no idea that each part of the body affects all of its parts, and convinced that he can work on one part, without knowing anything by experience about the other parts."

Dr. Mayo says the country needs more "general practitioners," or family doctors, fewer of what doctors call "specialists of the left eyebrow."

Dr. Harold B. Disbrow quotes John M. T. Finney, "Before you perform an operation, involving any risk for the patient, don't consult your professional, scientific views, but ask yourself, would I perform this operation, under these conditions on my own mother? If the answer is no, do not operate."

CONTINUE BANK REORGANIZATION

Treasury Report Shows 4,902 Institutions Operating.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21— (AP) — The treasury today continued trying to reorganize the nation's banking structure, its task made more clear cut by official figures showing that 4,902 financial institutions had emerged from the hectic March holiday with available resources of $20,860,491,000.

That was the condition of the banks last June 30. Since then, more banks have re-opened, some few have closed again. But at the end of June, the additional 985 national banks still closed or operating on a restricted basis had assets of $1,441,436,000.

It was the treasury's job to put more concentration now on these so they may be re-opened or reorganized and their total deposits of $1,028,347,000 made available.

Figures like these regularly are gathered by the comptroller of the currency, who issues periodic calls at times he selects for condition reports on national banks. June 30 was the last. The latest before that was December 31, 1932; there was another on June 30, 1932.

In December, 6,016 national banks reported assets of $23,310,974,000; on the last day of June a year ago, 6,150 reported assets of $22,367,711,000.

Confessions Obtained In Kidnap Case

Protect Suspect When Fear Reprisals From Outside.

DALLAS, Tex, Aug. 21—(AP)—Statements obtained from suspects held in Dallas for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, were sealed today for the eyes of a grand jury alone—for the protection of the signers themselves.

Frank Blake, department of justice agent, in disclosing "several confessions" had been obtained from among the five persons held here, refused flatly, for fear of reprisals, to reveal just how many had been made and just what they contained.

The confessions, Blake said, would be in the hands of federal authorities in Oklahoma City when the grand jury convenes there Wednesday to go into the Urschel case.

"Keeping these things in confidence," the agent said, "is essential to convince prospective witnesses—whether co-defendants or not—they will be protected against reprisals. When a statement is given us we must protect it; even if it tears the hide off. It might be bad indeed for certain persons on the outside to find out who made this confession and that confession, and what they said."

He did not mention George (Machine Gun) Kelly, sought over a wide area, as one of those "on the outside," but it was recalled federal authorities have named Kelly and Albert L. Bates, held in Denver, as the actual kidnapers of the oil operator, who was released only after payment of ransom reputed to have been $200,000.

Those held here are R. G. Shannon, his wife, Ora Shannon; his son, Armon Shannon, Armon Shannon's wife and Harvey J. Bailey, a desperado wanted for a long string of capital crimes. It was on the Shannon "farm" near Paradise, Tex., Urschel was held while ransom negotiations went forward.

To Arraign Bates.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 21—(AP)—Albert L. Bates, accused of participating in the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma oil man, was to appear before a United States commissioner here today in the first move of the federal government to bring him to trial.

John Dowd, department of justice agent, has said he will ask that Bates' bond be fixed at $100,000 and, if it is not furnished, he will be removed to Oklahoma City.

Since the discovery saws had been used on the bars of Bates' cell in the city jail, a machine gun guard has been on watch over him. He was moved Saturday to the county jail.

MINERVA'S MAIL

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

Fact In the Home.

Many people who recgnize the importance of using finesse in dealing with strangers never think it worthwhile to use any diplomacy in handling the members of their own household

Lack of tact and consideration causes much unhappiness among married couples.

Every husband knows he can manage his wife effectively and harmoniously if he will but take the trouble to jolly her and show her a gleam of tender appreciation. There isn't a wife who doesn't know that there is a psychological time for presenting bills and requesting favors of her husband, and that he becomes mellow and gentle under subtle praise and service. But they so often fail to use the knowledge they possess They just don't take the trouble to put the best foot forward when it comes to the husband or wife.

It's too bad. So much serious trouble can be avoided by practice of the gentle art of tact and diplomacy in the home.

Desire To Rule.

Dear Minerva: My husband makes life miserable for me, and for the children, through objecting to my methods in training the children. He is not home a great deal, and when he is home he does not take the trouble to study the individualities of our two children. Yet he continually tells me, in front of them, that I am utterly spoiling them. He will occasionally inflict some unjust punishment upon them, rendered upon a snap judgment or to give an utlet to his jangled nerves over their perfectly natural noise. Then, when they fearfully cower when he is around, he struts and boasts that he certainly can make them behave.

They haven't any respect for him, which I deplore He is truly deserving of their respect, only he never shows them anything but a stern, disapproving mood.

I don't know what to do about this. The children are only five and seven, and he gets worse with them and with me each year I do love him, but we all are getting so we are happier when he is away from home. What yould you suggest?—MARY-LOU

A. —The unintelligent desire to rule, and to display supremacy, in the home is an unpleasant characteristic, whether displayed by husband or wife. The man who assumes a lordly head-of-the-house attitude, and bullies his wife and children, is a difficult type of husband to manag—or I might say, to endure.

Your husband's tendency to nag at you concerning your management of the children, and dominate them through sheer force minus any understanding in the brief periods that he is home, shows clearly a ruling desire to display his superiority.

I suppose you'll just have to endure it, for it's a hopeless job to try to change such a nature. He doubtless has many good traits to balance this unhappy characteristic, since you do love him, so practice the habit of dwelling on his loveable traits and closing your mind to contemplation of this unloveable part of him.

Answered Briefly.

Ruth: Clothes and clever use of make-up do certainly play a part in a busines woman's success That is a fact, and certainly nothing you should resent. You are "all burned up," because a coveted job was given to nother woman, "just because she looked smart and sophisticated and important" Why not take a lesson from her, and look overwhelming yourself the next time you try to impress your employer with you ability to handle a job. It pays to look efficient, crisp, smart and sure of yourself.

Nina: It's perfectly proper to permit your daughter to attend the week-end party with her boy friend, when the invitation came from his mother, and she is to chaperone the party.

$600 Raised in Campaign To Aid Jews in Germany

Approximately $600 has been raised in Lincoln for the relief of Jews in Germany, Myrtill Aach, chairman of the local campaign committee, reported Monday. Mr. Aach said the amount had been subscribed by limited solicitation and that the campaign will be widened during the next few days.

VETS CONVENTION OPENS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21—(INS)—More than 10,000 veterans here today opened the annual national convention of the United Spanish war veterans whose central purpose this year will be efforts to obtain relief for disabled and needy veterans, according to William J. Otjen, national commander-in-chief.

Saloons Are Barred By Colorado Solons

DENVER, Aug. 21—(INS)—Colorado legislators were returning to their homes today after an 18-day special session that came to a close Sunday with final agreement on liquor legislation.

Under the law as passed, Colorado will have no saloons after the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, consumption of liquor on the premises where purchased being forbidden. Retail liquor stores will handle package goods

Other important legislation passed during the special session included authorization of a $20,000,000 loan from the federal government for highway construction and imposition of a special tax on automobiles to raise funds for relief work.

IT CALLS FOR CONCILIATION.

ONE effect of higher prices for farm commodities has been to intensify the farm debt problem. Thousands of loans in this and other states have been in default during the last two years, when prices reached such low levels that creditors were not inclined even to push their claims. They recognized the futility of expecting a farmer, carrying a heavy load of indebtedness, with corn selling for 10 cents and wheat for 30, to meet his obligations.

That condition no longer prevails, although recent developments brought a slump from the high levels attained some time ago.

It is imperative that the creditor and the debtor both shall give serious contemplation to the farm debt problem. There exists at this time a widespread misapprehension as to the exact legislative steps taken both at Washington, and in Nebraska by the last legislature meeting in Lincoln a few months ago.

The Nebraska moratorium act gives the debtor an additional fifteen months latitude over what he enjoyed under the previous law. It does so with certain qualifications, however. He must keep the property in repair. He must account for the farming operations, and if possible, make tax payments, and apply whatever remains over, if any, to satisfaction of interest and principal obligations. His failure to do so gives the creditor the right to appeal to the courts, and the court under the provisions of the moratorium possesses the authority to nullify its operation, in the event the evidence justifies it.

At Washington, three separate measures were enacted as a means of correcting the farm debt situation. The first opened the door to the refinancing of farm debts through the federal land banks. These institutions were empowered to refund sound first mortgages on a long term, low interest amortized basis. As a second step, in recognition that the federal land banks could not deal with those cases where the farm owner was more heavily involved, direct government loans on second note mortgages were sanctioned. Finally, in the most extreme cases, the bankruptcy laws were modified to permit distressed farmers to apply for the appointment of a debt counselor to assist in securing a debt compromise with the creditors.

In all but the last instance, the federal program calls for voluntary action between creditor and debtor. Any other plan would have raised grave questions of constitutionality. The whole proceeding points strongly to the urgent need of the debtor recognizing his responsibility. If it is the salvaging of his homestead that inspires him, he should get in touch with his creditor to see what program can be worked out. If the creditor refuses to budge a single inch, there is nothing which can be done except to resort to the most drastic of the federal legislation, which is found in the amendment adopted to the bankruptcy law.

That prospect is not pleasing to the average farmer. His pride rebels against it. Every instinct within him protests against a course of that kind.

And so this newspaper has been urging that the debtor and the creditor get together in a conciliatory spirit to consider the debt problem. The difficulty that has existed in many cases has been that the debtor simply ignored his obligations. He gained a false impression that moratorium legislation and legislative steps at Washington safeguarded him in his occupancy of the land. The moratorium in reality aggravated his trouble by postponing a decision and by piling up interest which had to be considered in the final settlement. It would have been far better had both creditor and debtor recognized the situation at the start, had both tried to deal with each other fairly and decently, had both been possessed of a spirit bred from realization that the nation was confronted with a grave emergency, calling for sacrifice. The national administration wisely established the avenues for conciliation. If both groups recognize the real facts in connection with the farm debt, they will proceed, as it was planned they should, toward working out their problems harmoniously.

NEWS SECRETS AND PUBLIC POLICY.

IF DOCTORS, lawyers, and clergymen are entitled to special exemption from telling "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" when they are placed on the witness stand in court, newspaper men are entitled to demand the same privilege for their profession.

A superior court judge at San Diego, Calif., took this view when he dismissed contempt proceedings brought against a reporter who refused to disclose before a grand jury the source of information given him regarding a murder for which a prominent politician was under indictment.

The newspaper writer's plea was that the data had come into his possession under the seal of confidence and he could not honorably name his informant for that reason. When a physician, an attorney, or a minister declines to testify under such circumstances, the court excuses him as a matter of course. Such is the legal custom that has been built up by custom and judicial precedents. But up to this time it has been taken for granted that an inquisitive cross-examiner in a suit or prosecution at law could wring from a reporter the secrets he was professionally bound to keep.

Journalists have gone to jail more than once rather than betray the confidences of those who trusted them. This should not be necessary.

A lawyer defending criminals has a pecuniary interest in defeating justice. Though his clients may confess their guilt to him, he labors to convince juries that they are innocent. He does this in order to earn his fee. Yet he cannot be put upon the witness stand and required to tell what he actually knows.

A newspaper man has only one mission to perform—that of obtaining the facts and publishing them. To get the facts it is frequently essential that the identities of those who give them shall not be revealed. It is the reporter's business to protect his source of news, and he does so, but not from any motive of personal profit or self-advantage.

The California case seemed to be one where a political machine which was under fire through the prosecution of one of its leaders for a grave crime desired to find out where certain information published in a newspaper came from. Had it succeeded in forcing the reporter to name the source, the machine could doubtless have made it hot for whoever gave him the dope. The truth of the matter published was not involved. It was only a question of "Who told?"

It is gratifying that the judge who heard this case refused to come to the aid of the machine by ordering the newspaper man to disclose where he got the dope on its methods of operation.

TRADING DISSATISFIED PEOPLES.

THE unusual proposal that Germany trade its communists for the dissatisfied German residents of Russia has been advanced by American relatives of the Volga Deutsch. The plan has been taken up with governmental authorities of Germany and of the Soviet Union in the hopes that dissatisfied peoples of two countries can be permitted to live peacefully and happily in congenial surroundings.

Lincoln people well know of the discontent of the German peasants living in the Volga region of Russia. This city has many citizens who emigrated from Russia during the days of the Czarist empire. These Volga Deutsch are receiving heart-breaking letters from their relatives in Russia, telling of the exile of many men, the breaking up of families, the starvation and privation endured by the people and of their general dissatisfaction with communist conditions.

These German farmers were brought to Russia by Catherine the Great. They were the pioneers of the Volga region. With their thrifty practices, agricultural skill and capacity for hard work, they built up a rich farming region in the Volga valleys of Russia, after undergoing hardships similar to those of the western pioneers in the United States. Although living on Russian soil, they continued to speak the German language, follow the traditions and methods of living of their native land and in short perpetuated a "German" culture among the Slavonic peoples of Russia.

Deeply religious and convinced that the way to succeed is through private endeavor, thrift and hard work, these Germans have found conditions in communist Russia intolerable. They don't want to live in "communes" and share alike with shiftless individuals and they have little sympathy with the communist ideal of a classless society.

In all probability, however, Hitler would not consent to exchanging the communists of his own country for these Volga Deutsch. The German-Russians would need lands to colonize and farm in Germany and the competition with native farmers might cause internal conflict. These German-Russians, however, would be valuable citizens of Germany if they could be received.

Hitler's objection would come to sending the communists to Russia. Unquestionably he would much prefer to have them in Germany, where he could and does keep a watchful eye on their activities, than in Russia, where they would be constantly scheming the overthrow of the Nazi government. Hitler would recall how Lenin, Stalin, Trotzky and the other "exiled" Russians intrigued while in England, Switzerland, America or other countries and came home to assume leadership of a rebellion at the first opportunity.

Although this proposal to remove the Volga Deutsch from Russia may fail surely some plan can be worked out to relieve these peoples. The Soviet government is not entirely hostile to proposals that the people be sent to other lands although apparently it wants to "sell" them rather than give them away. The Russians, in short, would be willing to let these Volga Deutsch go elsewhere if they could make a little money in the transaction.

Another colonizing scheme which has been suggested is that the German-Russians emigrate to Argentina or to Mexico. Some plan of this kind should be worked out. The problem might well be brought to the attention of the League of Nations. It is to be hoped that the world is "civilized" enough that it can work out a problem of this kind which involves the happiness and welfare of thousands of people.

THE OMAHA HOUSING SCHEME.

THE sentiment of Mayor Towl and others who held an informal meeting in Omaha Thursday for the purpose of considering the housing plan proposed by Congressman Burke, it is believed will meet with quite general approval. The representative from the second district had proposed to the authorities at Washington that a million dollars of public funds be used in developing a housing project in South Omaha, adjacent to the packing houses.

Mayor Towl and those with whom he conferred expressed themselves in favor rather of salvaging and rehabilitating old houses when occupants for them shall become available. It was pointed out that the filling up of vacant spaces in the settled sections would be preferable to the erection of new dwellings, as the general improvements required for the latter would raise the level of taxation for the entire city.

It is a well known fact that during the boom years when money everywhere was looking for investment, Omaha, as well as most other cities, was overbuilt. On that account apartments and dwellings are standing vacant and in many cases are not being kept in repair. There are some exceptions to this rule, but they are rare, and Omaha is not one of them. This being the case, the view taken by Mayor Towl is unmistakably sound.

Application for loans for such projects as that advocated by Congressman Burke must be filed with the administration in Washington rather than with the state advisory boards.

No loans will be made, the administration says, unless the projects can be safely self liquidated within the useful life of the buildings.

Many Nebraska towns need money for schools and other public buildings, but none, it is safe to say, needs funds with which to erect dwellings to house its population.

BRING OUT THE FIDDLE.

MISSOURI has established one feature for its state fair of general appeal. It is a violin playing contest. Starting with youngsters it embraces the old timers, whose favorite melodies, if poetic license may be used, are "The Arkansas Traveler" and "Turkey in the Straw."

There is something about the violin which carries wide appeal. The whole field of music is a controversial one and it would be a rash statement to suggest that of all the stringed instruments, the violin is the most popular. Yet, there is little risk in hazarding the opinion that a violin contest will attract attention at any fair.

NOW A KISSING CONTEST.

IT REALLY started in Hollywood, although Coney Island claims credit for it, and no one should be disposed to contest it. It seems that these endurance contests, which started innocently to determine who could sit astride a pole for the longest time, and then switched to a walkathon, are not sufficiently interesting.

At any rate, Coney Island has instituted a new one, a kissing contest, for which specifications are a bit vague. There are kisses and kisses, and some of them are satisfactory, and some are not, and some are artistic and some are very crude. Without desiring to add to the burden of government, it is about time that governmental authorities should step in to stop people from making themselves ridiculous.

QUESTION.
Indianapolis, Ind.
Has heredity more to do with forming character than environment?

ANSWER.

Why separate what is so manifestly a united process? This is a controversy in which experts ardently engage, and as stout old Sir Roger de Coverley was wont to remark, "there is much to be said on both sides." Impressive instances of heredity, such as the Jukes family which bred criminals, and the family of Jonathan Edwards which bred sterling citizens, are ushered into the arena. Yet there might have been saints in the first groups had environment favored it, and there were some sinners in the second, despite its ancestral advantages.

Does not this go to show that the combination of good blood with fortunate surroundings produces the best results, while souls not so much born into the world as damned into it seldom have a chance to display the superior qualities latent in them? Certainly neither heredity nor environment can be neglected with impunity, and considered apart they resemble a boatman using one oar.

Place a child of the right parentage in a filthy slum and he faces grave risks of detericration. Again, take on one of criminal ancestry and what is bred in the bone may come out in the flesh. Which of them is most likely to rightly handle life's opportunities is a secondary matter. Personality frequently refutes cocksure conclusions at either end of the issue. One of the best men I ever knew was reared in a slum of the worse kind. One of the worst rogues who ever fooled me sprang from an honored family and received a college education.

QUESTION.
Buffalo, N. Y.
What will be the result on France of Hitler's rise to power?

ANSWER.

France and other powers more friendly to Germany will doubtless watch Hitler's activities with some concern. But it is strictly Germany's affair and no other nation has any right to interfere. Abler men than Hitler have found the office of the chancellorship impossible, and President Hindenburg reserve to himself the final determination of Germany's domestic and foreign policies.

Even so, to place at the head of the government a man of doubtful ability who has openly denounced the republic and decreed its doom once he gained the authority is, to say the least, a bold step the justification of which depends on its outcome. Should Hitler subside and work in harmony with his colleagues he may prove a reconciling force. Assuredly he can no longer adopt with safety the role of the reckless demagogue who has captured the so-called "respectables" and the restless youth of his nation.

Behind the government is the labor group with the mighty weapon of a general strike at its hand, and prepared to wield it if the integrity of the nation is threatened. Around it are hostile people who have not helped its progress. The Polish corridor still divides Eastern Prussia in a provocative way. No wonder Germany is deeply agitated and bewildered to the extent of scarcely knowing what is best to do. But until now she has preserved her stability, and the constancy of the German people will not be obliterated by Hitler's accession to power.

QUESTION.
Bristol, Va.
What am I to do for my son, aged twenty-two, who has been without a job for two years and is getting so despondent that I am beginning to fear he will lose his reason?

ANSWER.

The simple fact is that countless other men suffer as your son does. Ready and willing to earn their bread, but doomed to an idleness for which they are in no way responsible, they first lose hope and then self-control. It is impossible to overemphasize the seriousness of this mental condition, which is frequently more severely felt by the young because they are naturally sanguine, and repeated disappointments plunge them into the extreme of despair.

The calamity that destroys the peace of your household is common. Eager able-bodied graduates of colleges, as well as unprivileged young men, sons of merchants and longshoremen alike, recently married couples who crave a home for themselves, and fine upstanding fellows who hate to depend on their parents, are involved in a distress acute beyond words. It distorts their whole outlook on life.

A thorough redistribution of available jobs is the best remedy I know. It is difficult to apply, but unless industry takes an upward turn in the immediate future it will have to be applied. Extraordinary circumstances demand extraordinary measures, and rather than have the anchorage of our young men and young women loosened we shall have to practice sharing the work.

Meanwhile, find something for your son to do. Surely no task demeans him so long as he has no other outlet for his energies, and nothing else to divert his attention from himself. Does he care for books? Then the nearest library is a city of refuge for his soul. If you can find a social center or a church club, insist that he avail himself of it. The Y. M. C. A. is rendering yeoman service for just such cases as his. Make him feel he is of real value to you and the household. Ward off everything that undermines his self-respect and stability.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "THE HUMAN BODY"

HOW PAUL WHITEMAN REDUCED FROM 303 TO 200 POUNDS.

It can be done. Evidently! You can take off those extra pounds if you want to. The news has been full of records of reducing during the last few days.

Dr. Clendening

First, the president comes back from a vacation jaunt overweight, and we are told how he takes off a few pounds.

Then Mrs. Paul Whiteman publishes a book which is the record of one of the most remarkable courtships in history. Margaret Livingston told the King of Jazz when he proposed that she would not marry him until she could put her arms around him. He weighed 303 pounds, and to gain his bride he reduced himself to 200.

"Whiteman's Burden" is the amusing name of the book which tells the story. The Paul Whiteman reducing recipes are given in detail, and exactly what he ate each meal as ordered by his fiancee in her daily letter. It is an extremely dietetic romance.

Looking over the Whiteman method in the critical spirit of scientific nutrition, there are several things that arrest the attention.

First, it was 60 days before he had lost 18 pounds. He was 90 days losing .25 pounds, and apparently over half a year losing his required 103 pounds.

This is extremely sensible—and also, of course, extremely hard work. We hear of methods by which people take off such-and-such a number of pounds in two weeks. This rapid reduction is likely to be dangerous. But sticking to a diet for a long stretch of time takes will power. And here I note as a scientific fact that will power is what is required to reduce to any great extent.

The articles of food selected for omission in the Whiteman dietary were largely the fats. Again a sound scientific principle.

Like most people who are overweight Whiteman over-ate. Although he thought he didn't. His wife teasingly describes a bout he had with indigestion as a result of eating sausages and bananas and cream and Welsh rarebit. So it will be noticed he over-ate on fats.

Then one notes that the real secret of the Whiteman diet is the fact that there was simply less to eat in it. And that, strange as it seems, is the fact that most reductionists do not grasp. They always want to know what foods are reducing. Then they eat all they want of these. It doesn't make much difference what you eat (except the fats) if you want to reduce, but you must eat less of everything.

Tomorrow we will give some of the Whiteman recipes and menus.

There have been a few reports of the early treatment of Paget's disease in which relief was obtained by the use of parathyroid extract, but no relief has occurred in advanced cases

Just Folks

GIRLS OF THE CHORUS

They dream so much of greatness,
Poor tired girls
Who dance for hours upon their weary toes.
They would make famous those false yellow curls
By pleasing people in the theater rows.

I watch them struggling for the throng's acclaim
And wish them well, but oh, their path is hard!
I pity them because the gate to fame
I know against the most of them is barred.
They keep their printed notices in books,
Spin dreams of splendor which are mostly vain;
Suffer great hardships for the crowd which looks,
And seek applause with weariness and pain.

And always as I see them dancing there,
Struggling for favor ere they grow too old,
I seem to see the failure and despair
That wait nearby to crush the dreams they hold.

Ireland Expects De Valera to Ban Blue Shirt Army

DUBLIN, Aug. 21—(AP)—President Eamon De Valera was expected today to issue a decree banning Gen. Eoin O'Duffy's blue-shirted national guard, storm center for weeks of a tense political situation.

The president said at a rally in Thurles that if reports were received that the blue shirts had violated a rule against uniformed parades the executive council of the Free State would declare the organization illegal.

Ample evidence was provided by nearly 100 small parades in all parts of the Free State yesterday. Police apparently had instructions not to interfere with them but to report the number of uniformed men participating.

General O'Duffy maintained that his blue shirts are legal and if the government declares them otherwise "the government shall be guilty of a positive act of tyranny."

"The national guard," he added, "will neither dissolve nor allow itself to be driven underground."

Debt Adjustment.

Wolbach, Neb., Aug. 17.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star:

You harp on the creditor and the debtor getting together when you know that human nature is not that way. Rather the creditor will demand every dime and use all the law possible, regardless of what it will do to the debtor. They would take the last drop of milk, the last crumb of bread from the mouths of the debtors' babies and you know it. They would even go further—throw the debtor in jail if possible and they have done so in the not very long ago past.

So if you expect to scale down the debts of any debtor you will have to do so by law. You have harped on this thing so long that we readers know you are against the debtor getting his debts scaled down.

The creditor had better start scaling them or he will lost lots more. Suppose there was revolution? How much do you think he would be forced to lose? The only thing that will stop this is as the administration is trying to do at Washington. They are not trying by coaxing as you would have the debtor do. They are trying to pass laws to help both classes. I do not expect to see this in print and if I do it will be in some back page corner where you try to put all things that have been said by the courts that did not agree with your views on the moratorium law as passed.

Drive Planned For New V. F. W. Posts

Revise Program for Veterans' Day At Fair at Meeting Here Sunday.

An intensive campaign for the organization of new posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Nebraska, was planned Sunday at a meeting of the department council of administration at the Cornhusker hotel. Members from all sections of the state attended. The council also decided to revamp the district boundaries, the changes being left with the executive officers and the district commanders.

The state V. F. W. picnic scheduled for yesterday at Capitol Beach was postponed until veterans day, Sept. 3, at the state fair. Commander Otis E. Davis of Scottsbluff, reported that he is receiving reports from almost every post in the state that members who have been receiving disability payments under the provisions of their war risk insurance policies, have been dropped from the rolls. A protest has been filed through the national headquarters of the organization.

The program for veterans' day at the fair, has been revised. The new arrangement:

Babich's boys band in concert from 2 p. m. to 2:30.
Parade by veterans and auxiliaries.
Short talks by representatives of the G. A. R., United Spanish War Veterans, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.
Address—Rice W. Means, editor of National Tribune and past commander in chief and Veterans of Foreign Wars and United Spanish War Veterans.

At 3:45 there will be band, drum and bugle and drill team contests by groups representing all of the organizations. This will be followed by a guard mount exhibition by the national guard, and drills, and the awarding of prizes to the winners of the contests.

Department Commander Davis left Sunday night for Milwaukee to attend the national convention of the V. F. W. the first week in September.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Is Caught At Last

When most secure you may feel,
Watch out lest danger on you steal.
Peter Rabbit.

For the first time since shortly after he had entered Farmer Brown's garden just at dusk, Peter Rabit felt really safe. Jimmy Skunk had been right. That old vegetable crate, turned upside down with an old coat thrown over one end of it, was the safest place in the garden. Hooty the Owl had tried to get at him and given it up as a bad job. Reddy Fox had discovered him in there and hadn't dared even try to get him.

"I wouldn't have believed it," said Peter, talking to himself. "No, sir, I wouldn't have believed it. In fact, I didn't believe it when Jimmy Skunk said it would be so. Reddy Fox certainly is a suspicious person."

He scratched a long ear with a long hindfoot as he thought this over. "Perhaps Reddy is right at that," said he slowly, and scratched the other long ear with the other long hindfoot. "Perhaps that is one reason he has managed to keep out of traps and escape the hunters with terrible guns. It may be better to be to suspicious than not suspicious enough. Reddy may lose out sometimes by being suspicious. He did tonight. He lost a perfectly good Rabbit dinner." Peter chuckled. "But if this had been a trap and he hadn't been suspicious it would have been just too bad for him."

He settled himself comfortably and prepared to take a nap. He was tired. He had had some dreadful frights and he had worried himself almost sick. Also he was too lame to venture outside where Hooty the Owl might be watching still and Reddy Fox might be lying in wait. What he needed most just now was a good rest. So with his mind at ease, Peter closed his eyes and in a jiffy was fast asleep.

It was daylight when Peter was awakened. It was broad daylight. He was awakened by a heavy footstep close at hand and then almost before he was awake enough to remember where he was, that old coat was lifted. Peter was in a panic. He limped to the other end of the old crate and crouched in a corner, his heart going pit-a-pat, pit-a-pat. He was trapped now and he knew it.

"Well, well, well! See who's here!" cried a familiar voice. "If it isn't Peter Rabbit himself!" It was the voice of Farmer Brown's Boy.

Of course Peter didn't understand a word, and of course he made no reply. He simply crouched in his corner and trembled. Farmer Brown's Boy stopped the hole by which Peter had entered and then walked around to the corner where Peter was. Peter hurriedly hopped ove rto the opposite corner. He hopped on three legs. Farmer Brown's Boy noticed this at once. He saw the tear in Peter's coat, made by a claw of Hooty the Owl.

"So that's it!" 'exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "You were hurt and you crept in here to escape some one. We'll have to see about this."

There was gentleness in his voice now that even in his fright Peter recognized. Somehow he felt less frightened. Anyway, Farmer Brown's Boy was an old friend. It was better to be caught by him than by any one else he knew of. So Peter hardly struggled at all when Farmer Brown's Boy slipped a hand under the crate and got hold of him. Gently he was taken out and gently he was held as Farmer Brown's Boy carefully looked him over. All the time he talked to Peter.

"Steady, Peter, steady," said he. "I'm not going to hurt you. It looks to me as if a Hawk or an Owl had

"Steady, Peter, steady," said he pretty nearly caught you. That is what comes of being where you had no business to be."

He carefully felt of the lame leg. "No bone broken," said he. "That leg is just stiff. What you need is to keep quiet for a few days in a safe place and then you will be as well as ever. It is a good thing I found you. Now the question is what to do with you."

ADVENTISTS CLOSE STATE CONFERENCE

Final Sermon Delivered By Rev. J. H. Schilling On Second Coming of Christ.

The Nebraska Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, which met on Union college campus all last week, closed Sunday with an address by Rev. J. H. Schilling of Lincoln. He sketched the second coming of Christ as taught by Christ, by the prophets in the old testament, by the apostles in the new testament, by the Christian church and by modern theologians.

"Inasmuch, as Christ himself and the prophets, the apostles, the Christian church through the entire years of its existence, emphasized the doctrine of the second coming of Christ, then, we, as a denomination, were not the only ones who adhered so strongly and tenaciously to this dogma," Rev. Schilling declared.

"We as a denomination needn't feel at all reticent about proclaiming this in a emphatic way, for we are only rehearsing what the churches have always taught. We should look forward and regard the second coming of Christ as the ultimate of our hope and the fruition of our faith."

Sunday morning 67 members were baptized in a special service. S. G. Haughey of Fairbury spoke briefly at this session.

In the afternoon sessions of the conference, D. D. Rees of Lincoln spoke concerning the work of The Christian Record. Mr. Haughey also spoke at this meeting.

HEARING POSTPONED.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Hearing on the injunction suit brought by the wayside milk dealers of Chicago against Secretary Wallace to contest the legality of the agricultural adjustment act was postponed today until August 28. In the interim, Secretary Wallace agreed to "take no steps to revoke the license" of wayside dealers.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

How to Play AND How to Win

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

THE LIGHTNER SLAM LEAD CONVENTION.

Mr. Theodore A. Lightner is conceded by all who know him to be one of the greatest analysts among bridge players. He has contributed a great deal to the theoretical and practical developments of the Culbertson or approach-forcing system of bidding. Among other contributions of his to the game is the name "One over One" as applied to a suit response of one to partner's opening bid.

Recently expert players have been turning their attention more and more to the proposition of the play of the hand as distinguished from the bidding. Mr. Lightner has developed for use against slam bids what is known as the "Lightner Slam Lead Convention." This convention provides that when a player bids a suit and subsequently doubles an opponnet's slam contract, his partner must not open the suit bid by the doubler. The reason for this is obvious: if opponents, after an opening adverse bid, have reached a slam contract, they are prepared to have the suit originally bid opened and, in fact, the opening of that suit may be the determining factor in the success of the contract.

One of the hands played in the recent international match in London, where America and Great Britain contested for the possession of the Charles M. Schwab trophy, gave a splendid opportunity for the use of this convention. The hand was:

East, dealer.
North and south vulnerable.

Sir Guy Domville

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1♡	2♡
Pass	3NT	Pass	6♠
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

My bid of one heart was a mild type of psychic. The distribution and the fact that our opponents were vulnerable were the determining factors in the making of the bid. Colonel Beasley's bid of two hearts obviously was a slam invitation, and Sir Guy Domville's bid of three no trump made certain that our opponents would play the hand for six.

My husband was in the lead when I doubled and, of course, I hoped that he would choose as his opening lead the suit of which I was void. Unfortunately we had forgotten to announce to our opponents that we were using the Lightner slam lead convention, and so Ely felt compelled to make the ordinary, accepted lead of a heart. In consequence, the slam was, of course, made. Had we announced the convention, my husband would have led a club, which I would have ruffed, returning the ace of diamonds for the setting trick.

Today's Question.

Both sides vulnerable.
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠AKJ95 ♡AJ9 ◇8 ♣AQJ4

What do you bid?

Answer: Four clubs. This is a very strong bid and is a definite slam try. Since a three-club bid by you would be inferentially forcing, a four-club bid—an unnecessary jump—tells your partner that if he has a good two-spade bid he is to take some positive action rather than just bid four spades. If you bid only three clubs and your partner bids three spades, as is expected, you cannot be content to just bid four, as your hand is too good. In this instance you will have to bid five spades and play the hand there if your partner passes, and conceivably go down 1 trick. The four-club bid gives your slam try immediately and at the same time enables you to play the hand at four if partner merely responds with four spades. If he responds with anything else, you, of course, will either immediately contract for a small slam or use the four-five no trump convention.

Norfolk Youth Fatally Shot By His Companion; William B. Hoagland Not To Be Prosecuted

BOY'S JUGULAR VEIN SEVERED

Pistol Accidentally Discharged and Death Is Result.

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 21—(AP)—Frank A. McFarland, 17 year old son of Mrs. Alice McFarland of Norfolk, was fatally wounded Sunday afternoon by a bullet from a gun apparently accidentally discharged by a companion, Emil Moldenhauer, 18, of Norfolk, while the two were seated in a gasoline filling station here.

The two boys had been left in charge of the station and prior to the aaccident had been using a .22 caliber pistol for target practice. After firing several rounds they decided to sit in the station. Young Moldenhauer carried the pistol into the station and apparently was unaware it was loaded when he started handling it. In some manner he pulled the trigger discharging the bullet that struck young McFarland in the throat. The bullet passed through his neck, the jugular vein being severed.

Moldenhauer helped McFarland walk to an automobile and rushed him to a sanitarium, but the badly wounded youth breathed but a few times after reaching the hospital.

City Attorney Lynn Hutton, in the absence of County Attorney Peterson, investigated. He stated this morning that the shooting appeared to be accidental, but that it was for County Attorney Peterson to make a final decision.

Besides his mother, McFarland, a Norfolk high school student, is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

PLATFORM IDEAS GIVEN BY GREEN

County G.O.P. Chairman Urges Planning For State Campaign.

A number of suggested planks for the next state republican platform were included in a letter mailed Monday by Barton Green, county G. O. P. chairman, to several hundred workers throughout Nebraska.

Green emphasizes in his letter that "the people" ought to writ the platform and that in order to make this possible, discussion should be started on the proposed planks.

The suggestions included substitution of a utility commission for the railway commission with jurisdiction also over the power and gas business, elimination of most elective state officers, and substitution of a board of education for the University of Nebraska board of regents, the land commissioner and the state superintendent of public instruction.

Green said it had been proposed to have the educaton board formed of one member from each congressional district and give it power to make its own levy so that education will not be used as a club by special interests in the legislature.

Another suggestion was for reorganization of the Supreme court with only three judges at $5,000 each. There now are seven, each drawing $7,500, but their successors get only $5,200. Another would elect only the governor, treasurer and secretary of state and make other state officials appointive.

Other suggestions were for "old age pensions that mean something," unemployment insurance, a state income tax, state medicine and hospitalization, state securities and banking legislation with teeth and practicable, reducing all public purchases to be made from Nebraska products and all state employees to be residents of Nebraska, to put the state purchasing agent do all buying and to reorganize the powers and methods of operation of the state fair board.

Labor Unions To See No Evasions Of Codes

Committee To Investigate Complaints Which Are Being Made By Workers at Omaha.

OMAHA, Aug. 21—(AP)—Omaha's trade unions moved today to co-operate to speed NRA action in the cases of employers against whom code violation complaints have been lodged at local headquarters. A committee of three, representing all the unions of the city was scheduled to meet late today with the Omaha NRA code observance committee headed by Harley G. Moorhead.

O. M. Olsen, attorney and director for the central labor union, is chairman of the committee Serving with him are Emerson P. Howard, typographical union president, and John McMahon, secretary of the central labor union. They were appointed yesterday.

Olsen stated that reports had been made to union leaders that complaints against employers had not received the speedy attention from local NRA headquarters which the workers had hoped for.

"The purpose of our committee is to find out if these reports are baser on fact and urge all the speed possible," said Olsen.

Mr. Moorhead stated he believed the meeting of his group with the labor committee would clear up any feeling that the committee was not doing all in its power to take prompt action.

Accused Poloist Makes Denial of Nurse's Charge

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(INS)—Cecil Smith, San Antonio, Tex., cowpuncher and high ranking polo star of the west, today gave his version of the affair which led Miss Eugenia Rose, a young nurse, to file a statutory charge against him.

A hearing, first scheduled for today before Police Magistrate W. R. Brightmire of Evanston, now is set for tomorrow to give Miss Rose a chance to tell Assistant State's Attorney Eugene Sachowski how she contends Smith attacked her during what she described as a two-hour battle, Friday night in Hubbard Woods.

Declaring he would remain here until cleared of the charges, Smith, who yesterday led the west to a 12 to 6 victory over the east all-star polo team at exclusive Onwentsia, said:

Hints at Frameup.

"I drove Miss Rose home Friday night, but at no time was there any play of indiscretion on my part. I cannot understand Miss Rose's charges unless they are a deliberate frame-up.

According to the young woman's story, Smith dragged her from the car and struggled with her until she "could no longer resist."

BRYAN REVIEWS NATIONAL GUARD

Compliments Officers and Men On Appearance Made.

ASHLAND, Neb., Aug. 21—(AP)—Governor Bryan wore a rubber coat for his first public appearance since his long illness Sunday but the weather man stepped in at the right moment and let the governor and others review Nebraska's national guard at their camp near here without a wetting.

It rained up almost to the time when the governor, Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, of the seventh corps headquarters of the U. S. army, and Adj. Gen. H. J. Paul of the Nebraska guard, went onto the field in rubber coats in an open car furnished for the occasion by Nels Updike of Omaha.

The rain stopped just before the party left the headquarters of General Paul where Bryan rested from his trip from Lincoln. The car "rode the line" and then swung back across the field to take position for the companies to pass in review. No rain fell until after the last company passed, but while Bryan and Hagood were speaking briefly, rain began to fall again and a heavy downpour came shortly after they returned to headquarters.

Stands During Review.

The governor stood in the reviewing car while the guard passed and said afterwards he apparently suffered no ill effects from the outdoors and unusual exertion. It was the most strenuous occasion for him since he became sick election night last November 8.

"General Paul and his staff are not only to be complimented for what they have acomplished but the state can be proud of the guard itself," Bryan said. "The boys are entitled to much credit for the sacrifices and energy in coming here for the camp to show what they have done in barracks during the winter.

"The men made a fine appearance and had been brought up to a high state of efficiency by their officers under the command of General Paul. They assembled this year without horses and mules so all officers in the review were afoot. The wagons, drawn by mules, were missing this year."

General Hagood also spoke highly of the guard's appearance, Bryan said.

Several thousand persons were at the parade grounds for the review and automobiles were parked around the field from one to three deep. The field is sod and the previous moisture did not appear to bother the guardsmen in their maneuvers.

The guardsmen broke camp Monday morning.

Chicago Girl Is Found Dead in House Where Slayer Hanged Himself

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(INS)—Three days of searching for Miss Mary Petshak, 19 years old, was ended today with discovery of her unclothed, strangled body in the basement where her slayer, Charles Denges, 49, had hanged himself.

After reconstructing the tragedy, police were convinced that Denges had beaten and strangled the girl to death Friday and had kept the secret until he ended his own life in remorse. Miss Petshak was a niece of Denges by marriage.

The man's body was found hanging from a beam in the basement of his home. Police who investigated found the girl's body hidden beneath a pile of lumber a few yards away. Near Miss Petshak's body was a hammer with which she had been beaten.

When other members of the family left for a week-end vacation trip last Friday, Denges and Miss Petshak were left alone in the home.

LEATHER WORKERS DEMAND REVISION OF NRA COVENANT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—A thirty-hour week and higher pay than that called for in the leather code was asked of the national recovery administration today by labor leaders in the industry at the opening of hearings on the proposed covenant.

The labor spokesmen contend that the proposed 40-hour week would "make no contribution to the recovery campaign" and that wages of 30 cents an hour for the south and 32½ cents for the north were far too low. They asked a minimum of $8 for a 30-hour week.

NRA Program Will Be Boon for Some But May Work Hardships for Others

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(INS—In the last week or two there has been a great deal of uncertainty over just what and who the NRA (industrial and agricultural) programs will benefit.

For some, it is evident, they will be a boon, while for others they may work hardships. They are also found to result in inequalities. It is hard to make a shoe fit all feet and not have it punch some.

On the benefit side of the ledger may be listed as fruits already in hand or about to be tasted:

1—Higher income for the farmer, or, to put it another way, greater farmer purchasing power.

2—More leisure for the masses through the 35 or 40-hour week. This means more spending for pleasure, etc. A person idle always spends more than a person working.

3—Increased wages for workers receiving less than $35 a week. The bulk of the employed population is in this class, so this means increased purchasing for the masses, providing costs do not rise too fast.

Increased Purchasing.

4—A reduction in unemployment through the forced shorter hours and spreading of work. This also means an increased purchasing, as well as a reduction in jobless relief expenses.

5—End of child labor.

6—End of production below cost in the basic industries. This should help save the nation's natural resources, and end losses by corporations in these fields.

7—End of sweatshops and their uneconomic and unfair competition with legitimate enterprises. This should mean increased profits for companies in lines at present undermined by sweatshop competition.

On the Other Side.

On the other side of the ledger are these not so favorable indicated fruits of the program:

1—Higher living costs. This will pinch the "white collar" worker earning more than $35 a week, who at the moment seems to be outside the code, except possibly on hours. Wages are not being raised for this class, which suffered slashes up to 50 per cent since 1929.

2—Increased overhead for business. This will mean smaller profits and smaller dividends and other capital return, especially in these lines where it is next to impossible to pass the added expenses on to the consumer.

3—Increased government debt, through the workings of the various recovery agencies.

4—Increased taxes to meet the greater expenses of government.

So, for the investor, purchases should be selected with some of the above facts in mind.

Braves' Spurt Feature of National Loop Race

Beantown Club Tops Winning Streak With Twin Defeat of Bucs

BY COPELAND C. BURG.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 — (INS) — So they took the $50,000 and bought a winning ball club. That seems to be the story of those amazing Boston Braves, who came from nowhere in the National league until today they are in a virtual tie for second place with the Pittsburgh Pirates, seven and a half games behind the New York Giants. Since August 1, the Braves have won 15 out of 19 games.

That Bag of Gold.

What was the matter with the Braves had more angles than a jigsaw puzzle until they wheeled the bag of gold over to Philadelphia and exchanged it for Whitney and Lee, a couple of socking gents, who made healthy hits grow where nothing but foul balls seemed to thrive before.

Whitney, third baseman, made the Braves infield click like an electric refrigerator and with Lee in the left garden the tribe got some much needed hitting. The new deal worked wonders all around, indeed, for Wes Schulmerich, who, with Knothe, was thr-wn in along with the $50,000 just to sweeten the pot, has proved a hitting sensation in Philadelphia's band box park. He only hit .260 with Boston in 1932, but in Philly his high flies drop right over the fence.

Whitney got three hits and Lee two yesterday as the Bostonians beat the Pirates, 5 to 4, in 11 innings and then came back in the vesper to triumph again, 8 to 1. Wally Berger sent out his twenty-first home run of the season in the first game and Ben Cantwell's win in the nightcapper was his seventeenth pitching success.

Giants Far In Front.

Hal Schumacher achieved his fourteenth victory in subduing the Chicago Cubs with seven hits. The score was 6 to 1 and gave the Giants the biggest lead they have enjoyed since they astounded even themselves by first taking the league lead.

Washington's Senators flattened the St. Louis Browns twice, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1, extending their winning streak to 13 games.

Lou Gehrig got his homers No. 21 and 22 and his pals whacked 26 more blows as the New York Yankees humbled the Chicago Sox twice, 14 to 3 and 11 to 3. Allen and Uhle were the winning mound gents.

Detroit's Tigers gained fourth plane, winning 9 to 4 and 4 to 1 from the Athletics.

Indians Grab Turn Bill.

The third place Cleveland Indians batted out a twin bill triumph, 14 to 6 and 9 to 4, over Boston's Red Sox. Averill and Cissell hit homers in the opener, with Hildebrand winning his fourteenth battle.

St. Louis remained right in the ring in the event the Giants collapse and make a free-for-all, by beating Brooklyn, 6 to 2 and 5 to 0. The Cardinals are in fourth place, but only two points behind the second place Pirates. Other teams were idle.

Doubles Champs In Title Defense

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 21—(INS)—Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal., and Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., national titleists, today start their campaign to defend the crown in the national doubles tennis tournament at Longwood Cricket club.

They are the top-seeded combination in a field of racquet luminaries including most of this country's aces and four foreign tandems, two from England and two from Australia.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, and Johnny Van Ryn of Philadelphia, who were defeated in the finals last year, return to the battle today as the second seeded pair.

Lott Paired With Stoefen.

A new and virtually untried combination holds third place in the seedings. George Lott of Chicago and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles.

Behind them, in fourth place, are Francis X. Shields of New York, Newport singles winner and Lott's old doubles partner, paired with the 17-year-old Milwaukee ace, Frankie Parker.

In the foreign seedings, the headliners were Jack Crawford and Vivian B. McGrath of Australia. Fred Perry and F. H. D. Wilde, the British aces, were second, A. J. Quist and D. T. Turnbull of Australia, third, and H. C. N. Lee and Edward Avory of England, fourth.

The women's matches of the national doubles championship opens tomorrow.

Tricky Caddy Jinx to Shute

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(INS)—Densmore Shute, Philadelphia golfer who won the British open title at St. Andrews, will be escorted home in triumph today by a group of Philadelphians, who met him in New York yesterday when he arrived from abroad.

Shute told today how he almost lost out in the qualifying play.

"Every time I drove where my caddy told me to, I went into a trap," he said. "I finished with 81—only two strokes under the limit. I got a caddy more than 60 years old after that and he did not say more than three words all the way around and things were better."

THE ? BOX

ANSWERS BY "CY" SHERMAN.

Q: Umpire orders argumentative player out of the game. Player takes seat in adjacent automobile during several innings and then goes to the coaching line, without protest from either the umpire or the opposing club. After the game was concluded, the opposing team, which lost by a score of 11 to 7, filed an official protest with the league, demanding that the game be replayed because of the umpire's failure to enforce his decree banishing the player. Are these facts sufficient basis for a league ruling that the game be replayed?—R. A. S., Seward, Neb.

A: The squabble between the umpire and the player was strictly their affair. The umpire evidently relented and the team which lost the game forfeited none of its rights when the player was permitted to go to the coaching lines. Not a sufficient basis for replaying the ball game.

Q: Runner on third base. Pitcher is standing back of his plate, ball in one hand and looking at the catcher to get the signal. Runner starts for the plate and pitcher, without getting on his plate, throws home. Batsman steps in to hit the ball, but merely fouls it off. Catcher, meantime, steps on the plate in an effort to catch the ball. Umpire rules that catcher interfered with batsman, sending batsman to first and allowing runner to score. 1—Was the pitcher actually pitching to the batsman in throwing to the home base? 2—Did the umpire make the proper ruling?—L. F., Lincoln.

A: 1—Assuming you have correctly stated the facts pertaining to this play, I would say that the pitcher was fielding the ball to the plate and not pitching to the batsman. In that case, the batsman had no right to strike at the ball, nor was he privileged to interfere in any manner with the catcher's effort to receive the pitcher's throw. 2—The correct decision by the umpire, based on your statement of the facts, would be to call the runner out for interference by the batsman. The pitcher is not always a pitcher. This is particularly true when he is not on his plate and has not gone through any of the motions preliminary to pitching. In the latter case, he is a fielder, the same as any other member of the infield.

Q: In a kittenball game, a hit ball landed on fair territory just beyond the line between first and second, suddenly took english and bounced backward, passing first base on the home base side and coming to rest on foul ground. Was it a fair or foul ball?—I. W., Lincoln.

A: A play such as the one you describe would be impossible in a hardball game. It might be possible in a softball game, although I must confess my skepticism. Assuming that the ball described the peculiar antics you have set forth, I am of the opinion that the umpire could do no less than declare it a fair ball. Rule 37 says: "A fair hit is a legally batted ball ....that first falls on fair territory on or beyond first base or third base." Ordinarily, a ball which lands on fair territory, but comes to rest on foul territory before passing first or third is a foul. As the ball you describe fell on fair ground beyond the line between first and second, it would be a fair ball, according to Rule 37.

Q: Pitcher is standing on his plate and in position to pitch, with both hands on the ball. He then takes the ball in one hand, raising the latter above his head, and brings ball down slowly to another position with the ball in both hands just before making his delivery to the batsman. This procedure of raising and lowering the ball sometimes is repeated two and three times before pitcher actually pitches to the batsman, the pitcher's plain purpose being to befuddle a base-runner on first, who may be intending to try a steal of second but fears to take a lead off the base. 1—Are these tactics by the pitcher legal? 2—Should not the umpire call a balk?—R. F. D., Mankato, Kas.

A: 1—Pitcher's tactics illegal. 2—Umpire should call a balk, in accordance with Section 10 of Rule 31, which provision says: "After the pitcher has taken position, with both hands holding the ball in front of him, he cannot take either hand off the ball except in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman or in throwing to bases." The tactics mentioned are not in any sense new. Tricky pitchers frequently get away with balks or half-balks without penalty by the umpire. Nevertheless, the methods set forth are illegal, which is clear from the plain provision in the rules.

Q. Runner on third base. Batsman hits foul and ball is returned to pitcher, who does not step on his plate but throws high to third and runner goes home. Ball is then returned to pitcher, who steps on plate and throws to third-baseman, who steps on the bag. 1—Does the run count? 2—Is the runner out?—Z. A. N., Milford, Neb.

A: 1 and 2—Run does not count and runner is not out. Umpire should send runner back to third and order the game to proceed. "Ball is dead and not in play" after batsman hits foul. See Section 4 of Rule 35.

EAST SHOWN UP IN POLO MATCH

Final Contest Results In Victory for West By 12-6 Score.

BY JOHN C. HOFFMAN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(INS)—Polo supremacy today belonged to the west for the first time in the history of the game. In what was perhaps the most impressive upset the game ever has known, the west yesterday turned back the gallant young socialities of the east, 12 to 6, before a gathering of 17,500 that included a strange combination of people who eat caviar with the correct fork and folk who never heard of the delicacy.

For the series, which produced some of the game's most spectacular polo, the west led with a total of 35 goals as against 29 for the Hitchcock captained team. For all time, now, the system of adroit passing and fine old riding in polo has succumbed to the spirit of cowpunching and hard slamming.

Fiery Texan Sets Pace.

The hero, again, was no other than Cecil Smith, the busting Texan who scored half of the west's goals, despite the imminence of a hearing during which he will answer the charge of having attacked a young nurse.

The east got off to a flying start this time, but a 2 to 0 lead was shortlived. It was a net pass by the Guest boys that gave the Atlantic seaboard team its first goal. Then Winston Guest outrode Smith to score again. Smith, however, moved into the picture with a 25-yards smash that scored in hte second chukker. Then Aidan Roark tied the score after a spirited mixup in front of the east's goal and the boys from the west were never thereafter in the rear.

Cowboys Do Their Act.

Thenceforth the contest resembled something of a rodeo. Convinced that nothing except cowboy riding could beat these fellows, the east was steaming into the play with a frenzy that left the customers gasping.

Smith and Pedley put the west in the lead at the close of the second chukker, following a smashing 50-yard drive by the irrepressible Smith. Winston Guest tied the count just after the opening of the third chukker. But a free shot by Smith gave the west the advantage again and shortly after Smith was unhorsed by a vicious shot from the mallet of Tommy Hitchcock The score was now 4 to 3.

The half ended with the west in the lead, 6 to 4, following a swift interchanging of shots and rodeo riding by the perspiring poloists.

West Maintains Pace.

From this point, the west moved steadily ahead of the east. Three more goals by Smith, two by Roseke and one by Pedley eventually stripped the east of its last vestige of supremacy.

The east could score only twice during the entire second half. One of the points was registered by Winston Guest in spectacular by Winston Guest in spectacular fashion as the sixth chukker began. Winston had missed a midfield shot, but he scored after pursuing Roark half the distance of the field.

Boeseke collapsed as the contest ended, but he was not injured; only overcome by the strenuous pace of the competition.

Ferrell Registers Hundredth Victory

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 21—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell held a place today in the select circles of pitchers who have won a hundred major league twirling duels, but the uncertainty that recently has revolved about his baseball future was far from cleared away.

The North Carolina youth turned in his ninth victory of the season in holding Boston's Red Sox to seven hits yesterday and thereby reached the 100 mark in his fifth year with the Indians. In each of his other four seasons he had won at least 20 games.

It was Ferrell's first victory since June 21, and came just as he and Manager Walter Johnson were debating the advisability of converting him into an outfielder, where his heavy hitting could be put to daily use. The seven-hit performance postponed a decision.

TAKES PUNCH AT GOLF TRADITION

Spouse of Shute Plants Foot On Bar Rail of Sacred Club.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Lanky Denny Shute was in the hands of admiring Philadelphians today telling over and over again how he won the British open golf championship on his first trip abroad, but he scarcely got more thrill than did pretty Mrs. Shute with the story of her own conquest.

It seems that in the excitement of Denny's winning Britain's title, something happened to the tradition that no woman may step foot within the sacred male precincts of the Royal and Ancient clubhouse at St. Andrews. Mrs. Shute not only was escorted within the portals, but even put her foot on the rail of the club bar.

"They told me I was the second woman ever to set foot inside the clubhouse," Mrs. Shute related yesterday, as she returned with the champion from his triumph abroad. "The first woman was a secretary of the club. I also put my foot on the rail of the Royal and Ancient bar, but I didn't drink or eat anything. I was too excited."

Shute Tells His Story.

Shute, who beat Craig Wood by five strokes in a 36-hole playoff for the title, afer they had tied with 292s at the end of the regulation 72 holes of medal play, also had a story or two.

"Johnny Farrell and I were playing together the final round and at the second hole we both shot over the seventeenth green with our seconds. Gene Sarazen was just finishing his round. He said 'I just threw away the tournament with eight shots at the fourteenth.'

"I figured his five at the seventeenth and a four at the eighteenth would give him 293, so I aimed through the rest of that round at 292, a stroke lower. I took no more chances and got it."

'All along, I had thought Walter Hagen would be the man to beat, but he blew up after leading through the first half."

QUEEN TOTTERS ON NET THRONE

Empress of Tennis Has Uncertain Hold On Her Sceptre.

BY MICHAEL J. FOSTER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(INS)—The great Moody tottered on her throne today. Invincible for seven long years, Queen Helen's iron grip on the royal tennis sceptre finally has been shaken so convincingly by the bludgeoning forehand and tremendous power of British Betty Nuthall that tomorrow's national championship final at Forest Hills may see Mrs. Moody beaten for the first time since "Iron Molla" Mallory turned the trick at Rye back in 1926.

This afternoon's semi-final between Helen Jacobs, defending titleholder, and Dorothy Round, English Sunday-school teacher who wouldn't play on the Sabbath, may determine the great Moody's fate.

If Helen the Second, rested by the two-day respite after her gruelling battle with Josephine Cruickshank, repeats her Wightman cup triumph over Miss Round, then Queen Helen will reign for another year. She has the "Indian sign" on Princess Helen; the odds will be 10 to one on Mrs. Moody with the Helens meeting again.

She Socks 'Em Hard.

Miss Round has the game to beat the great Moody. She socks a ball almost as hard as "Bouncing Betty." she has even better control, and she is much more at home at the net than her teammate. The Moody who wavered so badly yesterday won't beat the Round who whipped Sarah Palfrey twice in a row.

Britain's Dorothy must first beat Helen Jacobs, however, before she can challenge Queen Helen. And Princess Helen promises to make very tough beating.

After Mrs. Moody's final-round opponent has been determined in the singles, Queen Helen and Elizabeth Ryan will take the court against Miss Round and Mary Heeley in the second of the doubles semi-finals. The winners of this match will battle the Nuthall-James tandem tomorrow for the crown.

Rain Balks Monday Games.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21—(AP)—The remaining semi-final matches of the women's national tennis championships at the West Side Tennis club today were postponed until tomorrow afternoon as a steady overnight rain, which soaked the courts, gave no signs of abating.

Today's program called for Dorothy Round of England to play Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, in a semi-final of singles, and Miss Round and Mary Heeley of England against Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Elizabeth Ryan in a semi-final of doubles. The finals will be played Wednesday.

Racketeers Horn In On Horse Racing To Rake Off Easy Money

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(INS)—Unannounced and without benefit of federal attention, a la Arlington and Chicago, the "rackets," it was learned authoritatively today, have moved in on New York racing and are making of it a grim and humorless jest. An organized clique, they say, fixed on racing as a means of support in the style to which they became accustomed, before beer-running and dope-peddling folded and left them flatter than a hat check. The result is that "sponging," bribery and "ringing" are understood to be commonplace.

Bookies Get Their Bumps.

Bookies and players alike have been caught in the middle by these operations, the beneficiaries being a favored few and no outsider figuring to the extent of even a minor "cut in."

So it seems that some of the bookies are quietly closing up and a lot of the "bookies" are coming home on the thumb, the hitch-hike language of the hard and unfeeling road. Not all of them are haircut-money players, either. The story, in fact, is the one book went for $12,000 trying to pay off on horses that didn't figure until the numbers went up and that a certain underworld "hero," who was not in on the good things, was taken for $40,000 before he left for an unknown, though healthier, destination.

He left a little hastily, it seems, because he discharged his obligations with a series of checks, made payable to the club house books, and these turned out to be "sleeve garters" That is to say, they were resilient. The snapped right in your face. They bounced.

Silence Still Golden.

So he, obviously, was not one of the operators and, while many doubtless have their suspicions in this connection, nobody is saying what they think, owing to the fact that audible thinking is liable to be a little unfashionable in the circumstances.

Nor have these so-called operations been confined solely to the Saratoga season. According to all you hear, "buzzers" were used promiscuously at one of the local tracks during its last meeting and the murder that was committed at the time is said to have outraged even the horse players, which is three under par for the course. A horse player is usually shock-proof. That is, as long as you don't hit him over the head with a piano stool, he thinks everything is just splendid.

The recent win of Cito up there in a jumping race that witnessed the barring of two riders must have been ludicrous, because the books refused to take any more money on this horse after he had been backed down from even money to 1-3. The horse and his rider, R. McKinney, won innocently, the latter being a millionaire "gentleman" rider who, it seems, was unwittingly "shooed in."

What About Mr. Bostwick?

This has caused some talk, by the way, of confining the so-called jump-up races to hunts meetings, which are exclusively for gentlemen who ride. It also has called some attention to the record of Mr. Pete Bostwick, the most famous of all gentlemen who ride. Mr. Bostwick has won many races over the jumps from professional riders and his fame has been something to treasure fondly and take home to hang on the living room wall.

But now the boys are beginning to wonder about that. If they "shooed in" poor Mr. McKinney the other day, what have they been doing to Mr. Bostwick all these years? Frankly, not even Mr. Bostwick knows about that.

The only thing anybody can do is conjecture and speculate. Indeed, the average man around a race track finds a lot of things that seem worthy of conjecture. But all he can definitely know is that anybody wh tries to beat the racket must have a frayed cuff lying around loose in his family closet.

Tuesday Matmen Arrive On Scene

Steve Savage, Chicago, and Victor Soldat, the Bohemian champ, principals in one of the main bouts on Tuesday wrestling card at the fair grounds, were scheduled to arrive in Lincoln today to complete their training with light workouts at the Y. M. C. A. wrestling gym.

The other half of the main go includes a heavyweight scrimmage between Pat McGill, the Wisner giant and George Kogut, Chicago headlock artist. McGill is training on his farm at Wisner and will be on the scene Tuesday noon.

A preliminary between Gorilla Tucker, the Texan and John Fulton, Greek lightheavyweight, in a 30-minute, one-fall scuffle, completes the card.

Promoter Meyand announced today that tickets are on sale at the Saratoga.

Hagelin beat Collins in yesterday's race, Frank Dutton of Lincoln finishing third.

Burton Amgwert of Lincoln won the 110-yard free style in 1 minute 13 seconds and was second in the 55-yard free style. Frank Dutton finished third in the latter event.

ALBION'S SCHOOL FACILITIES ARE OPEN TO INDIANS

ALBION, Neb., Aug. 21—(AP)—The board of education here has voted to open its school facilities to students from the Genoa Indain school. If the federal government, which has been planning to close the Indian school or curtail its operations, accepts Albion's offer, it would pay their tuition here and transport them daily by bus from Genoa, using the dormitories there. The Genoa school board opposed admitting the Indian students to the schools here.

TEXAS TO VOTE ON DRY REPEAL

Senator Sheppard Urging State To Be First To Uphold Amendment.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 21 — (AP) — Texas will decide Saturday at a statewide election whether it shall join the unbroken line of 22 states voting for repeal of the eighteenth amendment or head a revolt in the other direction.

United States Senator Morris Sheppard is in the midst of an intensive speaking campaign urging his native state to be the first to speak against taking prohibition from the nation's basic law. It was he who wrote the constitutional amendment submitted by congress to a vote of states, and ratified, 14 years ago.

On the opposite stump are Congressman Joseph Weldon Bailey of Dallas, former Governor James E Ferguson and others. Upholding Sheppard's hands are former Governors Dan Moody and Pat M Neff, in addition to scores of ministers.

Texans also will vote whether the state constitution shall be altered to permit the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer

The number of qualified voters in the state is smaller this time than in many years, because it is an "off election" season and because a poll tax of $1.75 is exacted of every person between the ages of 21 and 60 years who registers, and money has been scarce. Estimates of qualified voters range from 600,000 to 750,000 as compared with 1,100,000 last year.

Vice President John N. Garner, vacationing at his Uvalde home, has issued an appeal to Texans to vote for repeal, but he has declined all invitations to make public addresses during the campaign.

Puerto Rico Liberals Oppose Governor Gore

Stock Market Price Gains Of 1 To More Than 3 Points Are Scattered Over Wide Front

Strong Undertone In N. Y. Exchange

Shares Move Into Higher Ground Monday; Closing Tone is Strong.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—Stock prices moved into higher territory today, with most categories displaying a strong undertone throughout trading which, at times, was extremely dull. Gains of 1 to more than 3 points were scattered over a wide front, although the alcohols were favorites. The close was firm. Approximately 1,500,000 shares changed hands.

Traders generally were inclined to exhibit considerable caution in the matter of new commitments, but selling pressure was noticeably lacking and buyers were frequently forced to raise their bids. Grains at Chicago were a little heavy most of the day, although they received supporyt in the last hour and finished only fractionally lower. Cotton did little and other commodities were a trifle mixed. Bonds were fairly firm. The dollar drifted narrowly in foreign exchange transactions.

Distilling shares that reflected the Missouri repeal vote with gains of 3 to around 5 points included American Commercial Alcohol, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers and Schenley. Among other advances of 1 to around 3 were Delaware & Hudson, Allied Chemical, American Can, Case Threshing, Chrysler, United Aircraft, Aviation Corp., Consolidated Oil, Industrial Rayon, U. S. Steel, Du Pont, American Sugar Refining, Great Western Sugar, Union Pacific, Western Union and Sears oRebuck.

While Wall street continued to discuss the various angles of inflationary possibilities, the feeling was fairly widespread that no radical measures would be taken by the administration in the immediate future. It was pointed out that Washington is centering all its efforts on the NRA program and any sharp upturn in prices generally, before the wage-raising plans have time to take hold would not be consistent with the program.

Week-end news of interest to the financial community included completion of the steel, lumber and oil codes and word that the president expected the coal agreement to be finished in three days. Uncertainties as to the steel code have tended to hold down buying in that industry, but the magazine Steel believes that clarification of this situation should supply a strong impetus toward fresh purchases. The review said production last week had dropped 3 points to 51 per cent of capacity, out "confidence in an early fall upturn is strong."

The national industrial conference board's report of an increase in the average wages paid by the manufacturing industries during June was gratifying, although the figure reached $15.83 a week, compared with $23.22 for theoretically normal 1926.

The dollar showed some early heaviness. Sterling opened at $4.51⅞, up 1⅞ cents, while French francs at 5.35 cents, were up a point.

Wheat Closes About Steady

Prices at Chicago Even to ⅝ Under Saturday Finish.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 21—(AP)—Grain sagged wearily today after a moderate advance at the opening. Lack of interest by outside buyers forced both wheat and corn back at one time to three cents below Saturday's finish, but rallies wiped out part of the losses. Provisions were moderately active and slightly higher with hogs.

Corn was as unsettled with an early advance followed by a decline which carried the December off 3 cents from the early top. A rally from the inside figures followed but price changes remained rapid until the close. Comments on the crop made by local observers woh were out in Illinois over the week-end were distinctly pessimistic and the same applies to the outlook in Indiana. Iowa reports, however, were more favorable. Country offerings of old corn to arrive were small and the basis in the sample marke was up ¼ to ½ cent compared with futures.

Wheat closed fairly steady, steady to ⅝ cent lower than Saturday's finish, Sep. 87⅝@¾; Dec., 91@91⅛; May 94⅞@95g. Corn steady to ⅛ cent down, Sep., 52¾@⅞; Dec. 57½@⅝; May 62¾. Oats steady to ¼ cent off, and provisions steady to 10 cents higher.

Grain opened comparatively steady today, in the absence of any news affecting the market.

Some weakness at Liverpool was generally ignored here. Wheat started steady to 1 cent higher, but later a wave of selling carried prices down more than 2 cents a bushel below Saturday's close. Corn was steady to ½ cent lower and later declined with wheat.

Both wheat and corn rallied as swiftly as they declined, commission houses absorbing offerings to check the drop. The rallies fell short of the opening levels by a fraction and the market dawdled along with trades few and far between.

Messages from Liverpool said that market was not following Saturday's sharp advance here, and that buyers lacked confidence.

Despite unsettled market conditions, export business last week from North America was slightly larger than the previous week, but shipments from the Argentine fell off 1,813,000 bushels. Australian exports increased 1,657,000 bushels, to more than offset the South American shrinkage. The world total of 9,623,000 bushels compared with 8,888,000 bushels the previous week and 6,286,000 a year ago.

Corn exports were slightly smaller. Corn and oats followed wheat up and down, without hesitation. Provisions declined with grains.

Approaching mid-session, wheat was 1 to 1¼ cents below Saturday's finish and corn was down ½ to 1 cent.

Messages from central Illinois emphasized severe damage to the corn crop by heat, drouth and chinch bugs. Estimates varied as to the probable size of the crop, the most pessimistic saying that it would be one-quarter of normal and the most optimistic one-half. Second brood chinch bugs were in general evidence and were reported causing severe damage.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—The curb market showed quiet firmness today. Trading continued dull as the market swung into a new week and it was apparent that professional operators were still unwilling to take much of a position.

Oils developed some strength, presumably because the petroleum industry's code has been completed. Humble declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. Gulf advanced a couple of points and Standard of Indiana gained a major fraction.

Alcohol issues improved, though most of their advances were rather small. A fair amount of activity was noted in this group, apparently in response to the progress of prohibition repeal. Hiram Walker rose about 2 points.

Industrials were quiet and steady to firm. United Shoe Machinery sold higher in light trading. Utilities hovered around last week's final prices.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—(AP)—The bond market started off the new week with a show of firmness in prices, but with trading in small volume.

A dull stock market and absence of new trading incentives helped to keep the turnover at routine proportions in all but a few issues. Some of the secondary rails picked up a point or so by way of a further discounting of earning power comeback this year. In some loans of the Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Allegheny corporation, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, and Southern Railway improvement was most pronounced.

Price shifting was generally narrow in most of the utility and industrial loans. Exceptions included Postal Telegraph 5s, International Telephone 4½s, Warner Brothers 6s, American Foreign Power 5s and Goodyear 5s, which climbed major fractions to 2 points. U. S. Rubber 5s and Chile Copper 7s were soft. Bonds of the Consolidated Gas Co. of New York were not greatly affected by the rate reduction order of the state utilities commission.

The foreign division was marked by irregularity. British government 5½s and Argentine 6s had fair sized gains. Italian 7s yielded a point.

U. S. government quotations changed but little and mainly on the side of improvements. Trading was dull.

Chicago Livestock.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture)

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—The hog market showed some signs of strength at the opening today and held its gain through the session. Prices ran generally 10 cents higher than Friday and the market was active, with good 170 to 220-lb. animals bringing up to $4.65, top for the day, and the heavier ones $3.75 to $4.55. Receipts were 27,000, with 10,000 direct.

Outside markets also improved slightly, St. Louis reporting 5 to 10 cents higher than Friday and Omaha rather slight trading but steady with Friday.

Cattle receipts of 19,000 were heavy, coming after last week's liberal runs and while general prices were steady, the undertone was weak to 25 cents lower. There were about 2,000 grassy westerns in the run, the remainder mostly in-between grades of fed steers and yearlings. The last-named were most in demand and the early top was $7, with some held higher, but the best bringing $6.85. Bulls and vealers were again scarce and strong.

Sheep receipts of 20,000 also proved a little too heavy and fat lambs ranged around 25 cents lower, with good to choice natives bringing $7.25 to $7.50, a few being held higher.

Hogs—Closed mostly unchanged. Cattle steady to 25c lower, but uneven; sheep mostly 25c lower.

With 36 states needed to repeal, the following additional election dates have been definitely set:

Plans also have been made to obtain special elections in several others.

Butter Industry Said On Verge of Disaster

Proposals for Embargo or High Tax On Foreign Fats and Oils Made at Meeting.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—Proposals for an embargo or high tax on foreign fats and oils which compete with domestic products were made today to farm administration officials at a hearing called to discuss the troubles of manufacturers of milk by-prolucts.

Charles Holman, secretary of the national co-operative milk producers federation, said the butter surplus in this country was increasing and that importation of foreign fats and oils was a primary reason for low prices for fluid milk and butter.

He said the tax on butter fats was contemplated and that imported fats and oils should "take their share of whatever tax may have to be levied."

At the outset of the hearing, C. L. King, head of the farm administration's milk section, said the butter industry was on the verge of "disaster" and that the aim of the farm aadministration was parity prices for milk and its by-products.

T. S. Kenan, of the Atlanta Cotton Oil company, said the present vegetable oil tariff schedule was virtually worthless as a protection to the dairy industry and other manufacturers of domestic fats and oils.

LAMSON TRIAL BEGINS MONDAY

Employe of Stanford University Press Is Accused of Murder.

'Idyllic College Romance' Ended With Death Of Wife.

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 21—(AP)—David A. Lamson, 31, Stanford university press representative, goes to trial today on a charge of murdering his wife, Allene Thorpe Lamson, "the Juliet of an idyllic college romance," in the words of the chaplain who married them.

Criminologists, who have made scientific studies of the physical evidence, are expected to play an important part in the trial.

The prosecution, conceding there was no eye-witness to the slaying charges Lamson killed his 28-year-old wife by striking her on the head with a blunt instrument.

Her unclothed body was discovered in the bathtub of their Stanford campus home last Memorial day. There was blood on the floor, the walls, the ceiling and on the walls of the hall leading to the bathroom.

A length of pipe found in a bonfire, which Lamson had been tending shortly before the tragedy was disclosed, has been examined by both prosecution and defense criminologists.

Claim Blood on Pipe.

Dr. Frederick Prescher, county pathologist, testified at the coroner's inquest there was blood on the pipe and on pieces of cloth picked from the ashes of the fire. He was unable to say if it was human blood. Professor E. O. Heinrich, defense criminologist, has examined the pipe and questioned the findings of Dr. Proescher.

Despite the wide publicity given the case, the prosecution has said little regarding its theory of the motive for the slaying, beyond statements of investigators Mrs. Lamson had been rejecting her husband's affectionate advances through subterfuge, and that the Lamsons' home life had not been so nearly idyllic as their friends had believed.

The defense likewise has been silent about its plans, aside from Lamson's denial, upon his arrest, that he did the killing.

Lindy Helps Young British Pilot Save Parts Wrecked Ship

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 21—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh obeyed a rule of the air and lent a helping hand to a comrade in distress when he aided a young British pilot, John Grierson, in salvaging parts from the latter's plane, wrecked yesterday in an attemped takeoff for Greenland.

Grierson left England August 5 on the first leg of an intended flight by stages to New York, and reached Iceland by way of the Orkney and Faroe islands. A wave broke over on of the floats and completely wrecked the craft.

Grierson was not hurt. Lindbergh was extremely sympathetic and did everything possible to lessen the Briton's disappointment.

The American aviatr, who is engaged in a northern air mapping tour, conferred aboard the supply ship Jellinge which today awaited sailing orders from New York.

Mrs. Lindbergh, meanwhile, motored to Thingvellir as the guest of Mrs. Asgeir Asgeirosson, wife of the premier of Iceland. Mrs. Lindbergh said she did not want to leave the country without visiting this picturesque cradle of Icelandic history.

Wife Gives Sheriff Tips On Confidence Game of A. R. Reese

CHICAGO Aug. 21 — (AP) — In looking around for evidence against Arthur R. Reese, 38, of Anoka, Minn., held for operating a confidence game and forgery, authorities said they received several leads from his wife.

Sheriff E. J. Welter, of LaSalle county, who arrested Reese last Friday said Mrs. Reese told him her husband had swindled a St. Paul woman out of $800 and had obtained a loan by forging Mrs. Reese's name.

While holding him pending the arrival of warrants from St. Paul charging operating a confidence game and forgery, police continued to question Reese about the kidnapings of John Factor and William Hamm, jr., but said he had made no admissions other than that Minnesota officials had quizzed him previously regarding the Hamm case.

Sheriff Welter said Mrs. Reese informed him the automobile her husband was driving had been loaned to him by Sammy Taran, St. Paul, now awaiting trial for the holdup of a Fairbury, Neb., bank.

CRITICISE LAND BANK PAMPHLET

Educators Say Omaha Booklet On School Taxes Wrong.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—(AP)—State superintendents of schools in South Dakota and Missouri have voiced their protests against the Federal Land bank of Omaha's recent issuance of a pamphlet encouraging farmers to reduce school expenses 50 per cent.

I. D. Weeks, state superintendent of South Dakota, in a letter to the bank claimed it had no right to circulate the propaganda contained in a pamphlet title "Your Tax Problem." Charles A. Lee, Missouri state superintendent, wrote the bank that "No school district in this nation can reduce its school expenditures 50 per cent in one year without crippling the educational facilities offered the children."

Copies of those letters were forwarded to the National Education association which has asked Secretary of the Interior Ickes to investigate the Omaha bank's activities in that direction. The United States office of education is in the interior department and Secretary Ickes was addressed for that reason. The association has not received a reply.

Meanwhile the association is appealing to its members throughout the country to urge an investigation. The pamphlet which touched off this controversy was issued by the bank last month and told of a school district in Iowa which has cut its school cost in half. It urged farmers elsewhere to follow that lead and slice their tax bills.

It was pointed out unofficially by a member of the farm credit administration that the banks are concerned over high land taxes. The fact that taxes are overdue on a farm makes the first mortgage on that farm in effect a second mortgage, since taxes have first claim. And the land banks own first mortgages.

The farm credit administration denied, however, that it had sanctioned or even been aware of the pamphlet's issuance.

Grain Fluctuation Limit Remains in Force at Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Fluctuation limits continued to rule grain trading on the Chicago board of trade today as exchange officials said they awaited definite suggestion from government authorities in Washington as to whether the present limits should be maintained, removed or abolished.

Although a board announcement last week indicated that action would be taken, one way or the other, by today a statement issued yesterday said no meeting of the directors would be held until Tuesday, the day for regular conference. No forecast was available as to whether the price limitation rule would come up for consideration then.

The price swing limitations are understood to be included in a code drawn up by the grain commission on national affairs which is expected to be adopted soon. Under the regulation, still guding the operations here, pricos of wheat, rye and barley can advance or decline no more than 5 cents in one day. The limit for corn is 4 cents either way and for oats 3 cents.

200 Chinese Army Officers Killed In Train Smashup

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21—(INS)—Two hundred Chinese army officers were drowned today when two coaches of a train conveying 500 officers to the Kiangsi front were derailed and plunged over the side of a bridge into the Siao river.

The accident occurred between Kiukiang and Nanchang.

The 500 officers were returning to the Kiangsi front to resume operations against communist bandits after completing a special course in mountain climbing at Kuling, headquarters of Gen. Chiang Kai Shek, commander-in-chief of the Chinese armies.

Survivors made desperate attempts to rescue the 200 men trapped in the submerged coaches but were without success. Repair gangs rushed from Nanchang and Kiukiang were unable to raise the coaches in time to save any of the victims.

CRIME FIGHTING IDEAS ADVANCED

Delaware Expert States Whipping Effective Deterrent.

CHICAGO Aug. 21—(AP)—A variety of suggestions for striking at the nation's vexing crime problem was offered today by leading law enforcers and criminologists.

A survey revealed that while kidnapings have usurped crime's headlines, the most thickly settled centers found business rackets their most baffling problem while in the other regions it was theft in its varied forms.

Inspector of State Police Albert B. Moore of New York declared taking "politics out of law enforcement" was the remedy for smashing racketeering. Secret police were demanded by Col. Henry B. Chamberlain of Chicago's crime commission, to nab the racketeer, from whom, he said, "no business is safe" here.

Other individual suggestions for combating crime advanced were:

Police Chief John Manning, Clovis, N. M.—"Instead of destroying the confiscated gangster guns let big city police and the department of justice distribute them for use among the police of smaller communities."

Attorney General Roland Boynton of Kansas—"Establishment of a state police system would go a long way toward ending bank robberies."

But Delaware according to Superintendent George Black of the Wilmington police, continued to find the whipping post highly effective in keeping crime down and criminals from other states out of its pale.

Rules Adopted Against Padding Wheat Records

County Associations Will Be Asked to Compile Farm Production Reports.

WASHINGTON. Aug. 21—(INS)—Several rules intended to prevent "padding" of past production records by wheat farmers applying for acreage allotments were announced today by M. L. Wilson, chief of the wheat section in the farm adjustment administration.

In counties where wheat is heavily produced and where 60 per cent or more of the growers apply for acreage contracts, county wheat production control associations will be asked to compile production records of all farmers, both contracting and non-contracting. These records will show the wheat production on each farm during the past five years.

Producers owning more than one farm may contract to reduce acreage on only one farm, Wilson announced, but they must agree also not to increase thier acreage on other farms which they own, above the five-year average. Farmers who regularly summer fallow their land will be permitted to use a four-year base period, instead of five.

A Bamberg, S. C., woman reports keeping butter fresh six months by wrapping it in muslin and packing it in jars containing enough salt brine to cover it.

Monkeys Are Used In Quest of Cure For Encephalitis

ST. LOUIS. Aug. 21—(INS)—With twelve victims dead and new cases in the dread sleeping sickness epidemic increased to 129, health authorities today turned to experiments with monkeys in their campaign to check the spreading disease here.

Monkeys will be made the subjects of laboratory tests to determine, if possible, how the encephalitis germs are transmitted among humans, Dr. J. P. Leake of the U. S. public health service said.

Eight new cases were reported here last night as the twelfth victim, Mrs. Mary Joachim, 50 years old, died.

EMPLOYMENT IN ILLINOIS GAINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Gains of 4.7 per cent in employment and 5.2 per cent in payrolls from June to July, with 1,672 manufacturing and non-manufacturing Illinois firms reporting, were announced today by the state department of labor.

Manufacturing industries showed increases of 6.5 per cent in employment and 7.2 per cent in payrolls, while non-manufacturing industries increased employment 1.7 per cent and payrolls 2.5 per cent.

Weekly earnings throughout the state for all industries reporting averaged $20.76 in July, compared with $20.70 in June.

"Pop" Anson, famous oldtime baseball player who was captain of the Chicago White Sox through most of his 20 years of big league ball, began his career at 16 when he played with his hometown team in Marshalltown, Iowa. His professional career started with the Forest City club, and later, in 1872 he joined the Philadelphia Athletics. After his release in 1898, Anson continued in active ball, managing and playing with semi-pro teams.

The play of sunlight in the sky and on clouds takes strange forms, one of the strangest of which appeared in the sky in Sweden in 1924—a pillar of light. Above and below the sun a vast straight column of light extended, upward far into the sky, and downward almost to the horizon.

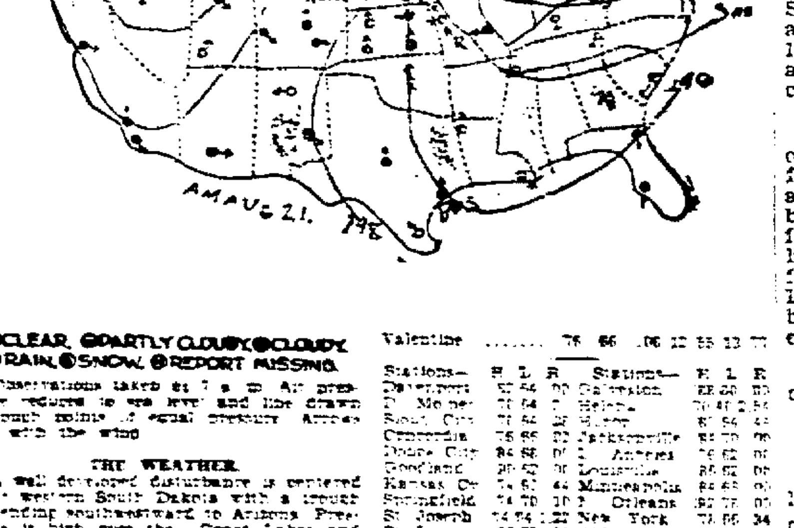

Emperor Constantine saw a fiery cross and was converted to Christianity, and some say that his vision might have been in fact a solar phenomenon similar to those witnessed by thousands of awed Swedish people only a few years ago. One of the strange sights of 1924 was a fiery cross perched high atop a great band of light that completely surrounded the sun.

The perfect number is defied as one which is the sum of all its factors, unity included. For example, 28 is a perfect number, it being equal to the sum of all its factors: 1, 2, 4, 7, and 14. The largest perfect number thus far found is 2,305,843,008,139,952,128. Larger perfect numbers may exist, but so far as it is known, nobody ever took the trouble to find them.

FOUR DEAD IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Merrymakers Rammed By Truck Loaded with High Explosive.

Guncotton Explodes and Road Strewn With Blast Victims.

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 21—(AP)—The crash of two trucks, one loaded with picnickers, the other with guncotton, early today turned a straw ride into an inferno, killing four persons and injuring a score of others seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

Police said the truck carrying the cellulose nitrate, part of a freight shipment bound for New York, crashed into the rear of the merrymakers' truck. Fire followed and a moment later there was an explosion which aroused the countryside.

Young people were strewn over the roadside, but it meant the saving of their lives. The four who burned to death were trapped in the straw-strewn picnic truck. Firemen and state police braved the peril of more explosions to drag out the bodies.

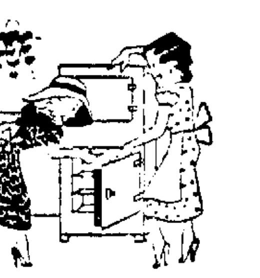

All of those killed and injured were from Chester and Marcus Hook and Trainer, Pa. They had been on a picnic to White Crystal Beach, Md., and were on their way home at the time of the collision, seven miles north of this city.

Those killed were listed by state police as:

Henry Cummings, 27, Chester.
Daniel Mahoney, Chester.
Francis Gask[illegible], 25, Chester.
Jennie Chiasta, 19, Trainer, Pa.

Several were injured in addition to the [illegible] who were brought to two Wilmington hospitals.

On the Wilmington-Philadelphia pike, [illegible] and east [illegible] a glare which could be seen for miles, the accident caused a traffic jam which blocked cars for miles in both directions. State police said the truck which carried the guncotton was owned by the Tri-State Freight Corporation, of Baltimore, Md. They declared the driver, Henry J. Knott, of Rockdale, Md., who was slightly hurt, told them he saw the other truck too late to stop.

Contest Building Not Paid By State

Reed Says Lincoln Auto Dealers Erected Structure Now Being Used For Walkathon.

After Miss Sarah Muir, spokesman for critics of the walkathon being conducted in the automobile building on the Nebraska state fair grounds, had called at the state auditor's office Monday to inquire whether warrants had been drawn against any state funds to pay for the building, Secretary Perry Reed of the state fair board of managers informed newspaper men that not a dollar of state money had ever been put into this structure.

"The fact is it was built by automobile concerns in Lincoln and paid for in the first instance with their money," said Reed. "I understand the original cost was about $32,000. Under the contract which the automobile people had with the state fair the building was to be paid for over a period of years out of the receipts for exhibit space within it, and was then to become the property of the state.

"For the first two or three years it was a good moneymaker. Then, in 1930, the automobile dealers offered to sell it to the board for $24,000 and take their pay out of the building's earnings, Those having charge of the fair at that time accepted the proposition, but in doing so they did not agree to pay any part of the purchase price with money appropriated from the state treasury.

"H. E. Sidles, with whom the contract was made was to receive 75 per cent of the receipts from the building each year until the debt was paid As a matter of fact he has not received that percentage in more than one or two years A year ago he did get 70 per cent but the total revenue was only a little over $200, and his share did not amount to much.

"Mr. Sidles is really holding the sack right now because the automobile building has not been yielding the returns expected from it. The principal reason for this is that few of the auto firms have been using exhibit space in the building the last two or three years. The only reason the board of managers rented it out fora walkathon was to bring in some revenue that is badly needed to help the fair.

"The only security Mr. Sidles has for the amount due him on the purchase price of the building is the income from its use He has never been paid any state money."

BIDS ASKED ON NEW POLICE CARS

More Frequent Tests Of Brakes and Lights Suggested.

City Clerk Berg Monday was directed by the city council to advertise for bids on six new automobiles for the police department. The engineer's estimate of cost is $3,300 plus four old cars and five used motorcycles to be turned in. The new cars are to be equipped with short wave radio receiving sets, according to the resolution, introduced by Mayor Fleming.

The police department also is contemplating more rigid regulation of automobile brakes and lights. Monday, Deputy City Attorney Lloyd C. Chapman, was asked to write an amendment to the traffic ordinance providing for brake and light testing more than once annually.

The suggestion of the police includes the designation of brake and light stations where the tests can be made at a cost of not to exceed 50 cents, during the time the police may prescribe.

Chapman has been studying the proposed change for some time through investigation of traffic, light and brake laws of other cities and states. Thus far he has found nothing that conforms exactly to the suggestion of the Lincoln department

Under the present laws the city council can order tests under the supervision of the police department Thus far no charge has been made

Abel Company Given Contract On Asphalt For Airport Runways

The Abel Construction Co Monday was awarded the contract to furnish the municipal airport with 10,000 gallons of cutback asphalt, with which to resurface the runways at the landing field. The Abel bid was $653.78.

The council also directed the clerk to advertise for bids on a carload of asphaltic cement for the paving repair department. The engineer's estimate was $600.

The cost of improvements in three special assessment districts were approved and the commissioners directed to sit as a board of equalization, beginning at 10 a. m., August 28 The districts:

Paving of North Twenty-seventh street from Merrill street to the north line of the Burlington right-of-way, $4,938 81, all of which is to be assessed against the railroad company.

Paving Vine street across the Rock Island tracks, $6,714.20, to be assessed against the company.

Sewer in the alley between Francis and Martin and Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets, $320.15, to be assessed against the abutting property.

Recommendations of the zoning board of appeals were approved, and two communications signed by Ernest Bock, secretary of Central Labor Union, were placed on file. One of the letters "objects to the passage of any ordinance or agreement which has for its purpose the creation of rules or regulations for the control and administration of the city health department patterned after the plan in effect relative to the city general hospital, but in fact operated as a private and exclusive institution."

The second letter "insists that in the distribution of statutory relief to needy persons, that strict adherence to statutory provisions be followed; that all federal, state and municipal subdivisions pay all employes in cash; that all employment agencies, including employes placed by so-called relief agencies be also paid in cash."

Both letters emphasize that the Central Labor Union is an organization of organized labor groups, 'all taxpayers."

Mrs. Davis Appointed To National Committee

Mrs. Davis

Mrs. Ellery Davis, Lincoln clubwoman, is one of fifty-two women appointed to the national women's committee of the 1933 mobilization for human needs by Mrs. Roosevelt and Newton D. Baker, chairman of the 1933 mobilization, according to an Associated Press dispatch

Mrs Davis, who has been a member of the budget committee of the Community Chest, and has taken part in many of its drives here, received notification of her appointment by letter a few days ago announcing the appointment, stressed the part private social agencies must play in the recovery program and urged the women to lend their aid in seeing that campaigns in support of those services are successful this fall.

CHICAGO DRESS MAKERS STRIKE

NRA Violations Charged As 10,000 Employes Quit Jobs.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21—(AP)—Garment workers said by their leaders to total 10,000 went on strike here today for higher wages and shorter working hours.

Bernard Shane, president of the International Ladies Garment union, said the strike was called because employers were displaying the blue eagle of the NRA on their plants, but were not living up to its principles.

Some of the workers, Shane charged, were paid as little as $4 a week. He charged they worked long hours under unsatisfactory conditions. Shane said he had obtained affidavits and pay checks from workers substantiating his charges.

About 90 per cent of the strikers were women

Employers said they would obtain sufficient dresses from New York to care for demands for the immediate future. About 150 dress making establishments were shut down by the strike

Replying to the union charges, employers said those who earned small weekly wages were piece workers whose earning capacity was based on ability and initiative

Samuel Esenberg, chairman of the Chicago Association of Dress Makers, said the demands of the workers were unreasonable and that the strike would only make working conditions more difficult in the industry.

Coast Strike Threatens.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 21—(INS)—Hoping to avert a threatened strike of 5,000 grape growers when the harvesting season opens this week in this region, state labor deputies consulted today with grape growers

While thousands of peach and pear pickers had returned to San Joaquin and Santa Clara valley orchards at increased wages from 17½ cents to 25 and 27½ cents an hour, grape pickers claimed they should receive the minimum wage given other fruit workers — 25 cents an hour.

J. A. Brown Denies Said Good Active With 'Beer People'

J A. Brown, attorney for the Anti-Saloon league, has written a letter to Attorney General Good in which he denies that he ever said to anyone that the attorney general had been "active with the beer people," which he had been quoted as saying Mr. Brown's letter follows:

"I have this morning received your letter of August 16 I am sorry it was given to the daily press before it was received by me

"I have never said anything to anyone about your "activities with the beer people" Someone called me a few days ago, whom I understood to be from the State Journal and informed me that you had written a letter, which would appear in the papers that evening, in which you declined to bring a suit to test the constituptionality of the beer bill I replied that I had not expected you would bring such suit because you had previously stated through the daily press that if the dry organization brought such action your office would defend the law The statement to which I then referred appeared in the Daily Star of June 22

"There was no further conversation relative to yourself or your office, and I have not at any time made any statement suggesting or insinuating that you were acting for the 'beer people'"

Snowball Bush Sports Blossoms Off Schedule

A Lincoln snowball bush, several months behind schedule, is now sporting four white blooms in the yard of the A. E. Shasteen residence 3001 South Ninth street.

Mrs. Shasteen, who noticed the tardy bloosoms a week ago, says they are a beautiful white although smaller than normally. The blooms have stayed on longer than those in the spring. It is the first time in nineteen years, she said, that the bush has had blossoms out of season. Usually it blooms in May.

NRA COMMITTEE OUTLINES WORK

Lincoln Recovery Drive Group Approved By Metcalfe.

Having received tentative approval of their plans of organization from Richard L. Metcalfe, state NRA chairman, members of the Lincoln recovery campaign committee met Monday afternoon in the chamber of commerce to begin work

With Stanley Maly as chairman of the general committee and Mrs. Ellery Davis as lieutenant general in charge of women, the committee is divided into the following three divisions.

George Towne, speakers, information and appointments, Joe W. Seacrest, publicity; Earl Middlekauf, for block to block canvass to check up on compliance with codes, proper use of insignia, and dealer and consumer activity

Replying to a question from the Lincoln recovery committee in regard to its powers, particularly in regard to the matter of its authority in dealing with complaints and violations, Metcalfe replied that present NRA organizations have no power. Between September 1 and 10, he said, a permanent organization with authority and power probably will be set up.

The Lincoln recovery committee according to Walter Whitten, secretary of the chamber of commerce, has requested that complaints of alleged non-compliance with NRA provisions, be mailed to the chamber of commerce in writing. These complaints must carry full description of alleged violations along with evidence and must be signed with the name and address of the party or parties complaining. These will then be turned over to the executive committee of the Lincoln committee for investigation and findings of this committee will then be submitted to Metcalfe

Meanwhile the Lincoln Central Labor union is going ahead with plans for a grievance committee of its own to investigate complaints and pass them on to the national administrator when justified. Britt Pryor, president of the Lincoln Central Labor union, has begun appointment of a committee of nearly a hundred, personnel of which will be kept secret to facilitate its work.

They were sentenced to death with nine other officials of the trust, who received terms ranging from 4 to 10 years in concentration camps.

Endres Tells Federal Men Nebraska Free of Organized Crime

State Sheriff M L Endres returned to work Monday after taking his vacation. He visited his son, Louis Endres, in Washington, D. C., and stopped at the world's fair in Chicago. While in Washington, he conferred with federal officials in charge of law enforcement work, informed them that Nebraska was virtually free of kidnapings, racketeering and other highly organized crime.

Lincoln Milk Co-Op Raises Cream Price

Price paid members of the Lincoln Non-tock Milk Producers association for surplus cream was raised to 18 cents a pound Monday, J. L. White, president, announced The increase was made to accord with rising prices on the Chicago market, probably due to inauguration of the federal milk program there, White said.

Early last week, the cream price was 14 cents. Friday it jumped to 16, and Saturday to 17.

The co-operative buys surplus cream from its members and ships it to Des Moines for processing. These transactions have no effect on the retail milk price in Lincoln.

Johnson Staying At NRA Job Until Task Is Finished

WASHINGTON, Aug 21—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson the recovery administrator, said today in a statement that he intended to surrender his job as administrator "when the NRA program is sufficiently advanced for me to go back to my regular business"

He added that it was impossible to tell when this would be, but his intimates have disclosed he hoped the time will be during the present year.

Johnson took the post as administrator at the request of President Roosevelt and Bernard M. Baruch, his business associate and a confidential adviser of the chief executive

In accepting, he let it be known that he wished to return to private life as soon as possible. He is a farm equipment manufacturer.

His statement today said

"I expect to stay on this job until my work is finished I have not set any date for retirement and it is only a matter of guesswork when the NRA program is sufficiently advanced for me to go back to my regular business"
